OK $30 million bond bill for A.O. Smith

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

An indenture resolution seeking up to $30 million in industrial revenue bonds to reopen the A. O. Smith Corp. automotive division here was unanimously approved Tuesday by the Granite City Council.

With the approval, monies will begin to be committed, Leo Konzen, an attorney retained by the corporation, told the council.

Any money spent before actual issuance of the bonds will be reimbursed now that the indenture resolution has been passed, he told the Press-Record.

Initially, money will be used to complete engineering studies, corporate officials at the Milwaukee, Wis., headquarters said last week.

An enabling ordinance in June of 1973 allows the city to "execute a financing agreement with any person with respect to an economic development project," the resolution states.

The resolution is based on the realization that "it is necessary for the general welfare and economy of the public that the City endeavor to provide permanent opportunities for industrial employment."

Industrial revenue bonds committed to the project will be used to finance the acquisition, construction and equipping of the plant, the resolution says.

There was no discussion on the indenture resolution at the meeting prior to its passage.

The plant is scheduled to open in mid-1984 or early 1985 and will produce a new front structure for 1986 Ford Motor Co. passenger cars. Some renovation work will occur this year.

Other contracts are actively being sought by corporate officials.

Initially, 100 to 150 persons will be hired in 1984 to work at the Granite City facility with up to 350 employees eventually being hired. Those persons hired first will be "new hires," according to Jack Birchhill, director of public relations and marketing communications for A. O. Smith.

Brimberry's mansion is sold

By BILL WINTER
and DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

The story of the Stix & Co. stock brokerage collapse in November 1981 continued to unfold this week. Developments included the sale of a Granite City mansion and the start of the trial of James Massa and Duane Skinner.

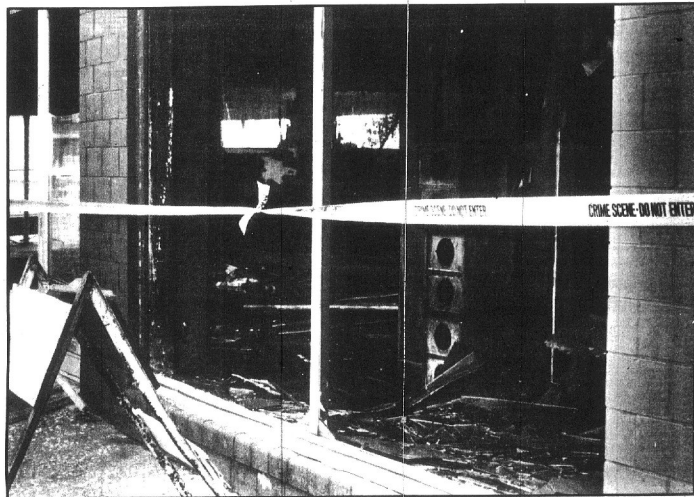

The residence was built for Thomas R. Brimberry, senior vice president for operations at the time of the firm's collapse and the principal figure in the case, known as the biggest of its kind in the nation's history.

Successful bidder at $330,000 for the Parkway Drive home Wednesday was the Bank of Edwardsville, holder of a $259,000 first mortgage. Another bidder, Larry Joiner, a partner in the Winfield Construction Co. of Granite City, offered $200,000.

Testimony in the Massa-Skinner trial is to begin today before U.S. District Judge John F. Nangle in St. Louis. Conspiracy to loot brokerage accounts of large sums is alleged.

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Editor

A "survey" which indicates that at least 40 percent of Madison residents are interested in having burglar alarm systems and cable television was greeted in different ways by the city administration and by the group which made the survey.

Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk, although doubting the validity of the survey, says he is happy that more people want to join the burglar alarm system, since with the current customers alone, gross revenues from the system exceed $50,000 and additional customers will increase that.

The Madison Concerned Citizens organization, which conducted the survey, feel that the poor response for the alarm system show that the majority of the people of Madison do not want the city to continue the project. "Due to the large number of negative responses to the proposed alarm system, the MCC officers are considering a court injunction to stop any more spending on the system and call for a referendum of the people on the issue," according to a press release by Maxine Tawney, secretary of MCC.

The Concerned Citizens say they distributed 325 pre-paid postcards to random homes throughout the city and asked persons to circle their answers to four questions and put the cards in the mail.

The group contends that 186 cards, or 57.4 percent, were filled out and returned within 10 days after distribution.

Sasyk says such a percentage is impossible. Sears feels a mail campaign is successful if three percent of the cards sent out are returned. "There's no way they got one-third to fill out the cards and return them. It can't be. I don't think the survey they made is worth the paper it's printed on."

Walter "Mick" Strange, MCC president, says the cards are available for inspection. However, he noted, the cards are not signed, since the MCC did not want those responding to have to identify themselves. "It was felt that this survey, when completed, would be a good indicator of whether or not the people of Madison want the cable TV-alarm system projects to continue," Strange said.

Sasyk said anyone could sit down and fill out 186 cards and contend that without signatures, they are worthless.

He said the survey should have no bearing on the cable issue. The city was paid $150,000 for the Wilbur Waggoner property in the Maers Industrial Park and decided to put that money to work on something that will continue to generate income to the city.

The current burglar alarm system, which serves businesses, schools, churches and some senior citizens relies on telephone lines and the cost of phone lines has quadrupled in the last few years, bringing costs for the service to a point where some businessmen say they can no longer afford to use the service.

The city studied the cost of putting its own cable up, rather than relying on telephone lines and found that it is feasible. Sasyk said $165,000 has been spent on cable and equipment, thus far.

Reject cable TV fee hikes

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

In a move that surprised some observers, the Granite City Council Tuesday struck down a proposal to amend the cable TV ordinance that would have increased monthly basic service rates by $1.

The amended ordinance would have raised basic service for residential subscribers from $7 to $8. The monthly basic fee for senior citizen subscribers would remain $4, according to the ordinance, which lost on a 7-5 vote with Aldermen Margaret Nunn and Sharon Perjak absent.

Mayor Paul Schuler did not vote on the issue and instead, recommended that the five aldermen opposing the increase form a committee to consider rates with representatives of South-Western Cable.

The city and South-Western Cable TV have been at odds about rate increases for some time now, despite a contractual agreement that says cable rates cannot go up without council approval.

It was found that the contract only included basic service rates and did not cover additional services like Home Box Office and the 24-hour Movie Channel.

South-Western Cable increased rates for both HBO and MC before giving the city notification, which angered some city officials. The move was considered a "surprise" rate change.

To consider the ordinance amendment proposal on for final passage Tuesday, Carl Kittel, of the Third Ward and chairman of the ordinance committee, requested that the rules be suspended.

That request was approved, but the ordinance itself failed to gain the necessary majority vote.

The vote followed little discussion as Kittel said the issue had been considered for some time by the council prior to the ordinance being read Tuesday.

Those voting no included Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward, Paul Ray Bowler and Michael Modrusak of the Seventh Ward, Jack Varadian of the Fifth Ward and Stephen Saltich, Sixth Ward.

Those voting yes included Everett Morlan and Casmer Skubich of the First Ward; Warren Decatur, Fourth Ward; Fred P. Schuman, Second Ward; Kittel and Paul Flisk, Third Ward; Walter Milton, Sixth Ward.

Investigate fire

An arson investigation is in progress at Fleet Services, Inc., a one-story brick garage building that is in ruins after a fire that began shortly before 2 a.m. Wednesday. The address is 2163-67 Madison Ave.

There was a strong odor of gasoline fumes when firemen arrived. An overhead garage door was partly open, and a door leading from a storage room to the main part of the garage also was open.

Firefighters remained at the scene until midday yesterday, and police barricaded the area and posted signs designating it as a "crime scene—do not enter."

The blaze was well advanced at the time authorities were alerted, but flame damage was restricted to the storage area. Smoke caused damage throughout the building, and the exterior front was blackened.

Damage to the structure was estimated initially at $5,800. Contents also suffered damage.

The first report was logged at 1:56 a.m. and police detectives assumed responsibility at 2 a.m. Wednesday at the request of Fire Chief Don Parente. The owner of Fleet Services was not listed on official records. A night contact person, Ron Blumfield, was called by authorities at 2:45 a.m.

In an unrelated fire, there was $2,500 damage to clothing and other contents of the brick home of Steve Kovar, 3028 Iowa St., at 1:35 p.m. Tuesday. A cardboard box situated next to a furnace ignited, tearing a basement clothes chute.

End sewer dispute

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

Brandon Heights residents agreed Monday night to sign over their property easements during a special meeting that was tinged with moments of animosity, indicative of the three-year struggle to reach an agreement with the Madison County Sanitary Sewers for Special Service Area Number One Committee.

In return for agreeing to sign the easements over to the county, the residents will receive $56,025 for easement rights and damages to divide among themselves, based on property assessments. The subdivision also will be tapped on to the county sewer system.

The total is the same as a bid for rerouting the disputed sewer lines along the south edge of Old Alton Road adjacent to Molean Acres that was submitted by O. T. Dunlap Construction of Edwardsville. The bid was accepted by the committee and approved by the Madison County Board and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Committee members said they were certain the Madison County Board would approve the settlement at its April 20 meeting.

One potential snag remains, however, because a lending institution that holds the mortgage on one home wants to collect the entire settlement of that resident, although he is not now, and has never been, behind on his house payments.

Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith, who has represented the county in the dispute, said he believes a settlement has been reached, despite the insistence on the savings and loan company involved.

A representative of that institution was at Monday's meeting. The resident involved had not been informed that an official would be present to discuss his share of the settlement.

In addition to the monetary settlement...

Venice considering Madison ambulances

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

Venice aldermen agreed Tuesday night to consider an ambulance service proposal offered to Venice residents by the city of Madison. Discussion preceded a regular meeting of the Venice City Council.

Proximity to the city of Venice, an offer to train Venice firemen as emergency medical technicians (EMTs) and to absorb those already qualified as EMTs into the Madison Ambulance Service were affirmative points offered in the proposal.

Conversely, basic fees charged private citizens who are without recourse to Public Aid or Medicare reimbursement, would be a minimum of $15 higher per call than those presently assessed by Campbell Ambulance Service, which currently provides service to Venice.

The proposed agreement also states that calls originating within the city of Madison will be afforded priority, that Madison can increase the rates charged with at least 30 days notice prior to the effective date of increase and that the contract may be terminated by either party, also with 30 days notice.

The Madison presentation was made at the invitation of the Venice City Council by Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk and Madison Fire Chief Mike Macko, who also heads the ambulance service.

The contractual arrangement read in Venice is the same agreement scheduled to be proposed to Nameok Township at its meeting Monday night, Mayor Sasyk said.

Both Mayor Sasyk and Macko took part in a question and answer session moderated by Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols, after Macko read the agreement outline. The officials were accompanied at the briefing by Madison Aldermen Don Reeves, Paul Ashford and Bill Gushleff.

According to the proposal, all uncollectible ambulance fees incurred in Venice would be billed to the city of Venice at a base rate of $48 for Public Aid recipients or $54 if oxygen is used, plus $1 per mile after 10 miles; and $60, plus $2 per mile after five miles (no oxygen charge), for Medicare patients and others who fail to pay.

At present, Campbell's rate to the city...

OH, NO! NOT AGAIN. The car pictured above was struck on 11:35 p.m. Monday in front of White's Auto Sales, 739 Madison Ave., by a Granite City man's auto which then left the scene of the accident. The auto bumped into the auto in front of it which, in turn, bumped another auto. It was the second time in less than a year that White's has had such an incident occur. The man, Randy L. Cochran, was apprehended and faces three traffic charges.

Venice police nab 2 for speeding

Two men, one from Venice and the other from Alton, were arrested by Venice police late last week after they allegedly were observed driving at high rates of speed on Route 3.

Johanne L. Lucas Jr., 42, of 161 Venice Homes, and Jimmy Moore, 21, Alton, were taken into custody after a Venice policeman said he was behind the two as they traveled south on Route 3 at speeds of up to 85 mph. Additional officers were called to assist.

Both men, in separate vehicles, were stopped by police at Second Street and Broadway when they slowed down.

Lucas was charged with speeding and failure to surrender his license. He was released at 3:30 a.m. on a notice to appear in court.

Noore was charged with speeding and was released at 3:15 a.m. on a notice to appear in court.

Man arrested at apartment

Daniel Shemwell, 23, of Rural Route Two, Granite City, was arrested at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Ramsey, 4506 Kirkpatrick Homes, after allegedly hitting Mr. Ramsey in the side.

Responding to a call from the Ramseys, officers arrived at the apartment last week, where Shemwell was outside. He allegedly came into the home and asked why the police were called. The officer went outside on the porch to speak with Mrs. Ramsey and allegedly saw Shemwell hit the woman's husband.

When told he was under arrest, Shemwell allegedly argued with the officers and force was required to put him in the police car and transport him to the police station. Ramsey signed a complaint and Shemwell was charged with resisting arrest, battery and disorderly conduct. He was released on $250 cash bail.

Three injured on Fehling Road

Three persons were injured in an accident during the weekend on Fehling Road, about 800 feet west of Nameless Road.

According to reports, a vehicle operated by William A. Ryno, 59, of 22 West Wilson Park Drive, headed west on Fehling Road, was struck on the left front fender by an eastbound pickup truck, driven by Aaron M. Morgan, 18, of Rural Route Two, Box 101, who made a left turn into the American Village Shopping Center in front of Ryno's car.

Both Morgan and Ryno suffered injuries and were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Also injured and transported to the medical center by ambulance was Robert D. Patrick, 17, of 4754 Lake Drive, Pontoon Beach, a passenger in Morgan's truck.

Morgan was charged with failing to yield the right of way.

DANCE, EXERCISE, MUSIC COURSES START

A variety of non-credit courses in dance, exercise, music and theater currently are being offered at the East St. Louis Center of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Beginning and intermediate dance technique are being offered for both adults and children. Students in these classes learn the dance techniques of the internationally renowned dancer and choreographer, Katherine Dunham.

Also offered are: an airmatics class designed to improve the coordination of athletes; a class which teaches the folk and social dances of Senegal, Africa; and a class which gives students practice in the percussive rhythms of drums.

Three music courses also are offered: a class in woodwind instruments is available for high school students and a course on keyboard literature is offered for music teachers. The "Building Blocks of Music," a program designed to strengthen and refine a musician's playing-by-ear skills, is available to both beginning and advanced music students.

A drama workshop for high school students is designed to develop basic acting skills. This course will center on the use of imagination, character development and pantomime techniques.

A class which teaches make-up techniques for the stage is also being offered. All classes meet at the SUE East St. Louis Campus at 411 East Broadway. The fee for each non-credit class is $10.

For more information about class times, contact the General Services Office at the East St. Louis Center, calling 271-3000, extension 73, 74 or 75.

Legislation pending for home financing

The Illinois House of Representatives' Executive Committee unanimously passed this week legislation which will provide much needed new sources of capital for Illinois' home financing industry and individual homebuyers, according to the Illinois Savings and Loan League.

House bills 331 and 332 sponsored by Rep. Richard A. Mautino (D-Spring Valley) and strongly supported by the Illinois League amend the Illinois Housing Development Act and State Monies Act respectively permitting the Illinois Housing Development Authority (IHDA) and state treasurer to invest in mortgage participation certificates (PCs) issued and guaranteed by the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (FHLMC) and backed exclusively by Illinois residential mortgages.

The legislation now goes to the full house. The bill must be approved by both legislative chambers and signed by the governor before becoming law. The FHLMC's principal activity consists of purchasing first lien conventional residential mortgages and participation interest in such mortgages and reselling the mortgages in the form of mortgage securities, primarily PCs to investors. By buying Illinois mortgages from savings and loan associations, the principal supplier of mortgage credit, and other lenders the FHLMC increases the availability of mortgage credit. Lenders can use the proceeds from the sale of funds to finance additional housing. The purchase of PCs by these state agencies would enable FHLMC to purchase more mortgages from Illinois lenders thereby providing lenders and homebuyers with additional mortgage funds, according to the League.

PCs represent undivided interests in groups of conventional mortgages purchased by FHLMC and provide for monthly pass-through of principal and interest based on collections with respect to the underlying mortgages. FHLMC guarantees to PC holders timely payment of interest at the certificate rate and full collection of principal.

The legislation if enacted into law will permit the state treasurer and IHDA to invest in Illinois housing and thus serve as a catalyst for the revival of the Illinois housing market. Since housing traditionally has led the state and nation out of recessions it is felt that this legislation coupled with a law passed in 1981 permitting state pension funds to invest in PCs will help stimulate the economy via the ripple effect caused by increased home buying and building activity. Illinois pension funds have $6 billion available for investment.

The legislation is very timely because it is predicted that the demand for mortgage credit in Illinois will exceed the supply of funds from traditional sources (savings flows and mortgage repayments) by $3 to $4 billion per year in the 1980's.

The Illinois Savings and Loan League is the statewide trade association serving the state's 293 savings associations.

More Illinois men, fewer women taking own lives

By ANN WESEMAN
Illinois Department of Public Health

During the three-year period of 1979-81, 3,192 Illinois residents took their own lives. The rate was 9.3 deaths per 100,000 population of all ages, nearly the same as the 1969-71 rate of 9.1 per 100,000.

After adjustment for changes in the age distribution of the population, the rate of death from suicide actually declined slightly (five percent) from 9.1 to 8.6 deaths per 100,000.

While neither crude nor age-adjusted suicide rates for the total population showed much change, there were notable changes in suicide rates within segments of the population.

Both white and nonwhite males had higher rates of death from suicide in 1979-81 than in 1969-71. The increase was larger for nonwhite than for white males.

Suicide rates declined among women in both racial groups.

Although the race differential for suicide has been decreasing, the suicide rate among whites was about twice the rate among nonwhites at the end of the decade.

There was a pronounced decline in suicide among women during the 1970s. Age-adjusted suicide rates decreased 23 percent for females and increased three percent for males.

By 1979-81, the age-adjusted suicide rate for males was 3.4 times that for females, compared with a 2.5 male to female differential in 1969-71.

Males have higher rates of suicide than females at all ages but the disparity is greatest among the elderly. Among males aged 35 and over, the suicide rate rises with advancing age, the rate for females peaks at ages 45-54 and thereafter declines with advancing age.

Age-specific suicide rates have been converging for three decades in Illinois, with rates declining among persons 45 and older and increasing among those aged 15-34 years.

The largest changes have occurred at the extremes of the age range. In 1979-81, the suicide rate among persons aged 15-24 was 10.5 per 100,000, 57 percent higher than in 1969-71 and 150 percent higher than in 1949-51.

The 1969-71 suicide rate for persons aged 65 and over was 14.1 per 100,000, 20 percent lower than in 1969-71 and 55 percent lower than in 1949-51.

The most frequent methods of suicide in 1979-81 were firearms (1,446 deaths), hanging (521), motor vehicle exhaust gases (494) and drugs (281).

The rate of suicide by firearms increased 11 percent over the decade to 4.2 deaths per 100,000 population; the rate of suicide by other methods decreased four percent.

End sewer dispute

ment, the agreement says that the county will assume all responsibility for damages incurred in placing lines and tapping the subdivision into the special service area.

Some residents, however, were skeptical that the county would fulfill that promise. The county also is to lower some manhole covers in the subdivision and resident John January told the committee he wants to see those specifications in writing.

Although Chairman Morris Miles told January it will be done, the resident insisted that all facets of the agreement be written and not oral.

"We learned we didn't want it," resident Anthony Evanoff asked the committee.

The residents filed suit against the county three years ago, seeking compensation for damages.

Problems arose when residents learned that the county had not properly recorded easements in the subdivision before it was developed a decade ago and, subsequently, the sewers ran through their back yards. The easements had been acquired by the county, but the subdivision had not been platted according to those easements.

When residents moved into the subdivision, they believed their property included the easements. Upon learning differently, they sought compensation for the sewer lines, which run through the back yards of the homes and restrict buildings and swimming pools in their back yards.

Some residents already had built structures or planted trees near the lines and were, therefore, hesitant to sell the easements or sign them over. An alternative, issued in a court order, said that either a settlement had to be reached or the lines be moved.

Moving or rerouting the lines, however, would leave the subdivision without a sewer system.

Several residents Monday told the Press-Record they were skeptical about entering into an agreement with the county, because officials reached a previous deal that included a settlement of about $70,000.

On June 23, 1982, residents went to the special service area office to receive their checks for settlement, but were told by Smith that title searches and the discovery of three additional lots had to be considered before checks were distributed.

With the latest — and final — agreement, the residents indicated they still do not completely trust the county and by the end of the meeting, it was apparent that they were reluctant to polish off the settlement by handing over their easement rights to the county.

There was even the suggestion that they might change their minds between now and April 20, when the full county board meets.

Smith, the committee and Irvin C. Slate Jr., attorney for the service area, tried to assure the residents that the board will accept the recommendation, the issue will be settled and checks will be issued.

Still, one of the residents not involved in the lawsuit did not want the litigation mentioned in the agreement and, further, did not wish to sell the easement for just a few dollars with the remainder of his share considered as compensation for damages.

By selling the easements for "$1 or $10" and having the remainder of the various settlements for damages, the residents would not be forced to declare the selling of property with the Internal Revenue Service, Smith explained. Should they decide they wanted to switch the agreement and have the majority of their settlements go toward purchasing the easements, it would constitute a land transaction and taxes would have to be paid on the income, he said.

All of the residents must turn over their easement rights before checks are distributed, Slate said. Should one resident change his mind, the entire settlement would be negated and the committee would return to the alternative of rerouting the lines.

Evanoff wanted the committee to specify an exact date when checks would be received. Smith said the checks could be issued as soon as the county board approves the agreement.

At this point, the committee and the residents have agreed to distribute the checks from the service area office upon receiving all of the easement rights. Distribution of the checks probably will take place April 25.

County Auditor Arthur "Pete" Fields told the Press-Record that there will not be any problem with "cutting the checks" upon board approval of the settlement and he indicated that checks could be prepared the afternoon of the board meeting.

With the agreement, the service area will receive $600,000 in grant money that has been withheld by the IEPA (see related story elsewhere in this edition).

Find $600,000 may be released by EPA

By NANCY WEIL of the Press-Record

With the apparent settlement Monday of the three-year long Brandon Heights easement dispute (see related story today), the Madison County Sanitary Sewers for Special Service Area Number One will receive $600,000 in grant money that was being withheld by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Last October, the IEPA notified the special service area committee that four requirements had to be met before further grant payments would be made.

Three of the four requirements were more easily accomplished than settling the easement dispute (see related story today). The Madison County Sanitary Sewers for Special Service Area Number One will receive $600,000 in grant money that was being withheld by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

County officials have said for nearly a year that the issue was close to being settled. Service area committee members and other county officials say now that they are confident the county is about to receive the settlement April 20, thereby freeing up the withheld money that is desperately needed by the sewer district.

The money will be used to pay a "substantial amount of interest" owed to the county by the special service area on loans taken to begin construction of the sewer system, said Arthur "Pete" Fields, county auditor.

Fields said that the service area has paid the principle on all loans obtained from the county, totaling $300,000.

He said there was accurate way to estimate how much the service area still owes on interest, because the figure is negotiable and adjusted each month, based on current rates.

The grant will, however, also cover construction costs for the service area, he said.

The IEPA was notified immediately of the settlement, officials said. Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith estimated it would be six weeks before the service area received the grant money from the IEPA.

He added that the IEPA has indicated it is "ready to cut a check. I think they'll really give the money to us in a hurry," Smith said.

The IEPA has been well aware of problems the committee and Brandon Heights residents have encountered in attempting to settle the dispute and the agency has indicated its willingness to send the final payment as soon as a settlement is reached.

"We're in superb shape for receiving the grant," Smith said.

Venice ambulances

ty for unpaid ambulance fees is a flat $50 per call, or equal to the $48 public aid reimbursement rate, if applicable.

Producing some surprised comments from the Madison officials was a statement by Venice ambulance service that Koelker, that only bill has been submitted to the city by Campbell for reimbursement in the seven months the ambulance service has been operating in Venice.

"I'd say you have been very lucky," Mayor Sasyk commented. "I believe Campbell has vigorously pursued the bills that weren't paid and, if he could collect, he did," Mayor Echols said.

The sole ambulance bill to which Mrs. Koelker referred was received only two weeks ago by the city and listed no charges for extra services provided the patient, she explained.

The Madison Ambulance Service has two fully equipped vehicles and 17 qualified EMTs, plus 23 firemen and seven cadet firemen in the fire department.

The ambulances presently are averaging only one run per day, according to Chief Manager Koelker.

However, Mayor Sasyk said the East Madison area, from Third to Harris across McCambridge, and the Cloverleaf Addition, also is being served by Madison, plus the possibility of Nameki Township joining the service.

Fourth Ward Alderman John Haynes asked for clarification on the city's responsibility for non-residents needing ambulance service while in the community and not being able to pay.

"If a Venice resident is in Madison and needs ambulance service, the Madison is responsible for the bill. If someone from Madison is picked up in Venice, then any unpaid fees are billed to Venice," Mayor Sasyk explained.

"I am not being critical of Campbell, but we are a lot closer to you people and we are willing to give your men training and work together. We have the same problems."

"We are not in the ambulance business," Mayor Sasyk commented at least twice. "We want to help the city of Venice. If your men work with ours and become qualified, they can get the training and later you may want to set up your own ambulance service."

Under the proposed agreement, residents of Venice who are not covered by Public Aid or Medicare would be charged $75 per call with no extra charge for oxygen plus $2 per mile after five miles. The current minimum rate is $60.

Non-residents would pay $125, plus $2 per mile after five miles, also with no charge for oxygen.

Concern was expressed by two aldermen about what would happen should Madison decide to discontinue ambulance service.

"The only way that we'd go out of business if mandated by the state to do something we could not do, or should in surance rates go too high," Mayor Sasyk replied.

City ambulance service would originate through the Venice Police Department, a practice presently followed.

In response to questions by First Ward Alderman Phillip Daniels and Fourth Ward Alderman Victor Valentine Sr., according to backup ambulance service, Mayor Sasyk stressed that Madison would not act as backup to Campbell, but has mutual aid agreements for backup service from other unexpected sources.

"Any charges from use of a backup service would not affect your rates, whether it's Granite City or not," Mayor Sasyk responded.

Although Madison carries liability insurance, Venice may ask for additional insurance at its own expense, the agreement states.

All mileage would be computed from the Madison Fire Station to the point of pickup and delivery at a hospital. It was stressed by St. Elizabeth Medical Center and the city of Venice is within the five mile range.

Little discussion on the proposed agreement surfaced at the council's regular session and no action was taken.

Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols did urge council members to review copies of the Madison proposal, reminding them also that any decision to terminate the present agreement with Campbell ambulance service would require a 30-day notice.

Motion to dismiss Barton case is critical of Weber's tactics

An amended motion to dismiss charges against Madison County Supervisor of Assessments James Barton cites nine alleged violations of the disciplinary code by State's Attorney Don Weber.

Attorney J. William Lucero filed the two-count motion Tuesday that claims Weber has "willfully and flagrantly engaged in misconduct" in the prosecution of the case.

The motion strongly berates Weber's actions. The first count claims violations of the disciplinary code and mentions that the state's attorney allowed "advice to be given a person who was not represented by a lawyer."

In November, Barton gave reportedly incriminating statements to Division of Criminal Investigation agent in the presence of Thomas Long, an assistant state's attorney. A person who was not represented by a lawyer, that testimony, because Barton was duped into believing that Long was there to protect him with counsel, was upheld by Chief Associate Judge Edward Ferguson two weeks ago.

The latest motion further claims that Weber released information to the media that "posed and created a serious and imminent threat to the fairness of the trial" of Barton.

The second count argues that the charges be dismissed because they are "vague and fail to state an offense." Lucero also claims the case against Barton is based on "incomplete evidence."

Barton has been indicted on charges of bribery, conspiracy and official misconduct for allegedly accepting money from Horseshoe Lake landowner William Nichols. The official is accused of keeping $500 of a $1,000 "bribe" from Nichols. It is alleged that Barton passed the remainder of the money to Walter "Shang" Greathouse, a member of the zoning board of appeals, to influence him to vote favorably to allow Nichols a special use permit.

Greathouse denies any wrongdoing and says he gave the money back and voted against the permit.

and estimates that the total cost will be $40,000 to $50,000 when all cables are strung.

Gross income then would start at $50,000 a year with current alarm users, and would increase with each new customer who signs up, he noted.

In addition, the type of cable being strung is compatible with all cable TV systems and should enable the city to either provide cable TV service or contract it out at a much lower cost than hiring a service which has to string its own cable. "I honestly believe we will be able to offer cable TV at half the cost to our people of what people around us are paying," Sasyk said.

The MCC survey showed that 40.5 percent of those responding would pay something for cable TV while 59.5 percent said they would not pay for the service.

Another question, "If you had to subscribe to cable TV in order to have an alarm system, would you still be interested?" drew criticism from Sasyk, who said it is misleading. He noted that people will be able to sign up either for the alarm system, cable TV or both. There will be no requirement that users sign up for both, he said.

The survey showed that 89.2 percent would be opposed to signing up for cable TV just to get the alarm system.

Strange said he feels the most important question on the survey was the fourth question, whether the residents feel the city should spend any more money on the alarm project. The tabulation showed 66.6 percent opposing additional spending and only 6.9 percent in favor of continuing the project.

Sasyk again said that he doubts the validity of the survey, but said those opposing the project do not understand the benefit of the alarm system, which is reducing crime in the city, is helping some senior citizens feel at ease in their homes and is protecting the businesses in the city.

He stressed that the city could either spend the $150,000 from the Waggoner property and it would be gone, or can invest it in something that will continue to bring revenue into the city, which is what the city administration decided to do.

The money for alarm cables can either go to the telephone company or to the city, Sasyk contends, saying he feels the choice should be clear.

The MCC press release notes, "The Madison Concerned Citizens have frequently challenged the alleged statements of Mayor Sasyk that the cable TV-alarm system would generate $50,000 in income and that he had subscribers already signed up for the service. The city administration has been asked by the MCC to produce verification of this claim, which they have not done to date."

Sasyk said he not only has that many users signed up, but has that many users already hooked up. It is just a matter of switching their service from telephone lines to the city's cable when the system is operational, probably by mid-August.

Vote here on Tuesday, Apr. 12

As the Press-Record has been saying in recent editions as it presented background information on the April 12, 1983, candidates and issues, it is important that Quad-Cityans make a point of participating.

Next Tuesday's balloting will include the election of City Council members in Granite City, Madison and Venice; selection of park commissioners in the Venice and Granite City districts; election of a village president and board members in Pontoon Beach; election of a Granite City superintendent of streets; advisory voting in Granite City on electing rather than appointing the Illinois Utility Rates Commission, which rules on utility rates; and a proposal to issue $200,000 in Venice Park District bonds to construct a water slide, pavilion and bumper boat facility.

Local residents owe it to themselves—and their fellow citizens and taxpayers—to cast their votes in the privacy of the polling places.

Our comments on the contested offices and issues follow.

GC City Council competition

Granite Cityans' ballots on Tuesday will include an advisory referendum on the Illinois Commerce Commission, plus the selection of aldermen, a street superintendent and three park commissioners.

Four City Council members and the current superintendent of streets are unopposed. Contenders in the Fourth Ward are Warren Decatur, a conscientious alderman for the past eight years, and Phillip Miller, who would emphasize expansion of the job base, consistency in zoning, and sidewalk and street improvements. We lean toward the incumbent on the basis of his governmental experience and his engineering knowledge.

Our recommendation in the Fifth Ward is Mrs. LaVerna Corbitt, a self-employed counselor who has served on the faculties of four local schools and was director of the South High guidance department. A resident of the ward for 38 years, she holds a master's degree and has been active in Granite City church, youth service and health programs.

In the Sixth Ward, Walter Milton has been serving by appointment since Mac Warfield moved up to lead the street department. All three candidates for alderman have records of community service and could do a good job.

Milton's qualifications include business skills, an unusually active role in civic projects, and leadership during the past 15 months to achieve budget, agenda and safety improvements. We endorse Alderman Milton.

In the Granite City Park District, a two-year board term is sought by two capable candidates, Richard Reinhardt and Nancy Sanders. Both have past experience as employees of the parks and recreation program. Reinhardt has the added advantage of service as a park board member since March 1982.

Five are seeking two six-year park board positions currently held by Barry Loman and John "Jeff" Worthen. We recommend the two incumbents on the basis of their effective enhancement of services and activities. Gary Grandt, a past recreation director, also could serve well.

The advisory vote on an elected state commerce commission has merit on both sides.

Citizens concerned about rising rates are justified in favoring close scrutiny of utilities' costs and cost controls. On the other hand, statewide campaigning by would-be commissioners might oversimplify complex issues—and lead to curbs so stringent that utility services could deteriorate.

Unemployment in Granite City dropped 3.2 percent in February. Granite City residents were asked if they thought unemployment will continue to decrease. Their responses follow:

"From what I understand from the people I speak with, it sounds like unemployment will increase. There are rumors at the steel mill that they're laying off again."

Wilburn Webb, Granite City

"I think it will continue to go down. The economy is starting to pick up again, and I see a pick-up in employment soon. Once steel begins to pick up, others will pick up accordingly."

Lena Scarborough, Granite City

"I think it's going to get better. I'm an optimist, and I'm always looking for the best. The economy is going to increase soon."

Choices for voters in Madison

With the number of wards reduced by one, Madison voters have the duty and opportunity to choose four aldermen April 12. There is no opposition in the new Ward Four, formerly Ward Five.

The choice citizens face generally involves backing an incumbent alderman, for those who are supportive of the city administration's policies, or voting for an independent candidate, for those who want a change in municipal procedures.

An example is Ward One, where 12-year Alderman Earl Ashford directs the administration with achieving fiscal efficiency while improving street, trash, alarm and ambulance services. His principal opponent, Frank Marsala, would seek to "expand the public's voice" in governmental decisions. Alfred Endicott has dropped out of the race but remains on the ballot.

With two aldermen retiring and the City Council to be pared from 10 to nine members for the next two years, there is a vacancy in the new Ward Two. Rivals are Thomas George, Robert Grieve and Jim Riskovsky, all of whom have sought Council posts in the past. All three have ability; we lean toward Thomas George in our recommendation to voters.

In new Ward Three, the choice is between an incumbent, William Gushleff, who praises the administration's accomplishments, and Walter "Mick" Strange, who advocates increased public discussion of any and all tax and spending plans.

Those who are satisfied with city programs and attitudes can show it by voting for Mr. Gushleff; those who want greater airing of Madison government issues can mark their ballot for Mr. Strange.

Venice bond issue and contests

The Press-Record urges that Venice residents' next Tuesday vote for a $200,000 bond issue, including construction of a water slide, bath house, concession pavilion and bumper boat area.

The plans also call for purchase of playground equipment, improvement of ball diamonds and rehabilitation of the Lee Park fountain.

"Profits" would be utilized to upgrade park grounds and tennis courts. Summer recreation opportunities would be expanded, jobs would be provided and there would be a boost in Venice area business activity.

There is no opposition for a four-year term on the Venice park board. Opponents for a six-year term are Earl Hogan, an appointed member, and Thomas Scaturro, Venice street superintendent who has been active on the Venice park board for 28 years. We are inclined to recommend Mr. Scaturro to voters, but suggest that, if elected, he take a more positive attitude toward the water slide and related proposals.

We endorse three incumbent aldermen, Philip Daniels in Ward One, George Mangiaracino in Two and Victor Valentine Sr. in Four, on their past records of interest in Venice progress. The Ward Three alderman is unopposed.

Pontoon Beach president race

The Pontoon Beach village election next Tuesday deserves a strong turnout by voters. The next board is likely to be faced with considerable financial pressure which may cause the rethinking of the village's avoidance of a property tax on its residents.

We commend the present board and past boards for fiscal responsibility and for the incumbents' deserve voters' consideration.

Don Watson is a capable leader with extensive business experience who might do a good job as village board president. Paul Bennett, the incumbent, possibly should give more time and personal attention to the duties, and we believe, generally, he is doing a good job.

We lean toward Bennett.

Prefers Hogan, Ratliff for Venice Park Board

To the Editor:

On April 12, the voters will choose two park board commissioners, one for four years and one for six years. The best two for the positions are Calvin Ratliff and Earl Hogan.

Calvin is unopposed, which is a sign of public trust in him. Hogan, who is opposed by somebody, needs to be elected because he is a man that has the people in his heart. Earl Hogan will help anybody, black or white, especially our children. Voters don't be fooled or misled on election day. Keep Earl W. Hogan in office. You know it, and I do too. Earl Hogan has done many good deeds in our community.

Right now, Venice has one of the best boards of commissioners in the state of Illinois. Let's keep it that way.

Everything the citizens need, Earl Hogan has voted in favor of. Everything the citizens need, Earl Hogan has voted in favor of.

For the children, Earl Hogan has voted in favor of.

CONCERNED CITIZEN

Feels Halbrook will best represent 6th Ward

To the Editor:

Tuesday, April 12, the voters of Granite City are going to vote on various issues and for certain people.

My message is to the voters in the Sixth Ward who have Ross Halbrook running for the office of alderman in your ward and you couldn't pick a finer man.

I have known Ross Halbrook all my life. I attended school with him, served in the Marine Corps with him, worked with him, and I have observed the dedication and care he puts into each task he undertakes. He is not presently holding other offices that would demand his time. I know, if he is elected, energy and dedication would be poured into bettering your ward by solving present and future problems.

As the old saying goes, "if you owned a store, be the type of person you would want to mind it."

Final appeal for Venice water slide approval

To the Editor:

The Citizens of both North and South Venice will be asked to vote in an Election on April 12 in the city of Venice. The Venice Park District has presented before the voters a $200,000 general obligation bond issue to construct a water slide. The issue is to be voted on by the citizens.

Along with the water slide will be bumper boats, concession stands, bathroom facilities, game rooms, plus the remodeling of the tennis court and a total upgrading of our park.

We are speaking of jobs in the city and revenue and sales taxes for the city. This attraction will be fun for the children as well as the adults. Citizens should not miss this opportunity to vote some recreation right in their own city by voting yes.

The money we spend going to other cities for recreation we can help ourselves by putting into our own neighborhood and seeing the results.

Many people get upset about paying taxes, I do too, however, we still have to pay taxes. Since we all have to pay taxes, let's get something out of our tax dollars by voting for the water slide.

We, the citizens of Venice, deserve the best for ourselves and our children. Our children have nothing to do around our city because we have nothing to offer them. When it is not in the summer and there is nothing for our children to do, problems are likely to arise. If it was not for the present park board of commissioners and the Peoples Organization to Benefit the Children of Venice, recreation would be very little in the city. It is time for us citizens to come together to do the necessary things that our community needs.

We need to stop this old political personality conflict with each other and work toward the improvement of our city. We cannot depend on federal money or state money. We must do this ourselves. The government is cutting out, not giving in to us as citizens.

Citizens of Venice, we need this water slide bond issue passed. We are looking at each property owner paying only 15 per cent of assessed taxable value. We will not be paying for this for life. We are looking at about 15 years for the bonds to retire, and just think, this water slide will be forever, bringing in revenues for the city and the park.

Citizens, we are paying utility taxes, and what we are getting is higher gas and light bills.

We are paying sales taxes on gasoline and yet they still raise the price of gas. We pay sales taxes at the grocery, but we know we must eat, regardless of how high the taxes are raised.

So the water slide will be a help because the citizens will be able to catch a bus. We will not have to buy gas. We can walk to our park for these facilities.

We can make Lee Park our own little world of fun. We can make the dream come true by voting yes on April 12.

Support for Tom George in Madison's Second Ward

To the Editor:

We are writing this letter to announce our support for Tom George, Madison's Second Ward alderman candidate. It has been a long time since we have been able to say that here is a man who is truly for the people.

CIRCUS DAY at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is attended by 1,600 Brownie Girl Scouts. Scouts are touching a snake as one of the challenges of the Creature Feature segment of entertainment at the all day event. Edwardsville Senior Citizens performed with several musical selections, and many other projects were highlighted.

Brownie Girl Scouts attend Circus Day

One thousand six hundred Brownie Girl Scouts (ages 6, 7 and 8 years old) were treated to a special circus day at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville during the weekend. Participants were entertained by the Edwardsville-Senior Citizens who performed their own unique renditions of "Alley Cat," "How Much is That Doggy in the Window," "You're a Grand Ole Flag," and "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles."

The Muni Student Theater group provided a storyteller and mime who held the crowd's interest, as did Lauren Hollinger, a Belleville High School science teacher. His demonstration on static electricity literally kept everybody's hair standing on end.

The Creature Feature thrilled the girls with the challenge of petting snakes, seeing lizards, flying squirrels, monkeys, a macaw, Brazilian cardinals, silver-button quail, love birds and a lop eared rabbit. There were continuous songs, parachute games and folk dances going on in one ring of the circus. Shriners presented each girl with a animal-shaped balloon, and a ventriloquist performed.

Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts were responsible for taking care of a fishing booth, and necklace craft booth. These scouts showed younger Brownies how to make paper plate masks, kazoes, smelly stickers, decorate a bag, decorate a cookie, make paper bag puppets and distinguish a myriad of tastes in a tasting booth.

Girls were also given hugs by E.T., Mickey and Minnie Mouse, the Cookie Monster, Kermit the Frog and Miss Piggy. Junior Girl Scouts, dressed in clown costumes, painted clown faces on all the girls, and the girls painted a colorful circus mural throughout the day.

Entry deadline for annual artists' show

Entry forms still are available for the 17th annual Madison County Town and Country Amateur Art Show to be held May 13 to 15 at the Rox-Arena, Roxana Park, Roxana.

The show is open to any amateur artist, 18 years of age or older.

Entry forms and rules can be obtained at the Madison County Extension office, 300 Hillsboro Ave., Edwardsville 62025, or can be mailed on request by calling 1-556-8400.

All entry forms must be received by 5 p.m. April 26. Works will be judged by Dr. Walter Johnson, professor of art emeritus at the University of Illinois.

Works earning blue ribbons at the local show will be eligible to compete in the Regional Town and Country Art Show at St. Clair Square, Fairview Heights, in June. Those works receiving blue ribbons at the regional show are then eligible to compete in the state Town and Country Art Show next fall in Urbana.

Questions about the show can be directed to Geraldine Bower, University of Illinois Extension Adviser, at 1-556-8400.

Venice 'King and Queen' contest set Saturday

The People's Organization to Benefit the Children of Venice, will crown a teenage "king and queen of Venice" at the annual fashion show on Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Venice Recreation Center, 325 Broadway.

Mrs. Metro Pierson will serve as commentator for the fashion show featuring both boys and girls modeling the latest spring and summer fashions. Arrangements for the show are being completed by Mrs. Annie Claggett, fashion show coordinator, with Mrs. Heide Bishop serving as general chairman.

Special honors will be accorded to David Schermer of Schermer's Market in Madison, and Charles Hester of Charlie's Restaurant in Granite City, as dedicated supporters of the youth in the Venice community, the Rev. John Henry Williams, club president, announces.

Certificates will also be presented to others in the community who aid the organization for youth.

The 1983 king and queen will be crowned after the fashion show and as a grand prize they will receive round-trip tickets to Disney World.

To be eligible to enter the contest, teenagers must be 14 to 17 years of age and must be continuing their education. Grand prize winners, as well as second and third places will be announced.

The trips will include hotel accommodations and the winners will be chaperoned while traveling. Tickets costing $3 for adults and $1 for children may be purchased in advance or at the door on the day of the event, Rev. Williams noted.

Nameoki probe was to resume

A Madison County grand jury was to resume its investigation into the Nameoki Township expenditures and operations today, after breaking due to the Easter holiday.

The inquiry appears to be expanding, with prime consideration on equipment purchases by that department. It seems that the items not accurately reflected on invoices are of primary importance. All employees of the township highway department have been called to testify.

According to sources, the investigation has turned up no more than the $10,000 already known to be involved in the problem.

VOTERS OF THE 4TH WARD...

It's time again to elect our representatives to the City Council. As part of the election process we need to examine what those seeking re-election have done to represent us.

Mr. Warren Decatur, incumbent Alderman of the 4th Ward is seeking re-election. Part of his stated "Experience as an Alderman" in his brochure indicates he served on the Finance Committee for six years. During the election campaign of 1981, there was no mention of the City having financial problems. However, immediately following the election, much was said and written about Granite City's financial plight.

So the question must be asked, if Mr. Decatur, as a member of the Finance Committee, didn't know of the financial condition of the City, was he doing his job? If he did know, why didn't he inform us?

In my opinion, it would not be in the best interest of the City of Granite City to retain anyone in office that was a part of the gross mishandling of the financial condition of the City of Granite City.

I urge all voters of the 4th Ward to vote for a "Fresh New Look" on Tuesday, April 12, 1983. Vote for Philip Miller.

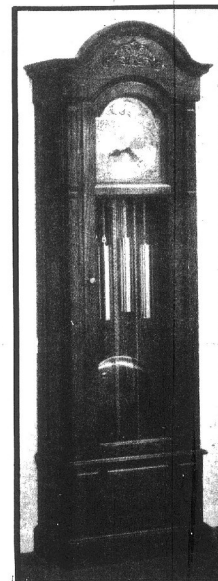

Mary E. Elliott
4th Ward Resident

Venice council hears changes in housing rehab income levels

By VALERIE EVENDEN of the Press-Record

Income limits used in determining eligibility for assistance under the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's Community Development Block Grant program have been revised, members of the Venice City Council learned at Tuesday night's meeting.

In other action, the council approved a building permit for a four-family apartment building to be constructed at 640 Broadway, Venice.

The brick structure will cost about $57,000 and each family unit will feature two bedrooms, according to the builder, Lenell Johnson Sr., 1330 Oriole St.

In discussing the housing rehab program in Venice, Mayor Tyrone Echols noted that HUD periodically adjusts income limits and suggested those applications already submitted by Venice families, whose requests were previously determined to be ineligible due to income level, should be reviewed.

According to Madison County Community Development, the revised income limits for housing rehabilitation grant programs, with the number in family and maximum family income listed in sequence, are as follows:

One person family may have a maximum income of $9,050; two person—$10,350; three—$11,650; four—$12,950; five—$14,250; six—$15,550; seven—$16,850; and eight or more—$17,100.

A "whole house" rehabilitation program started in Venice in September 1979 with an grant of $60,000 from Community Development funds and a $5,000 donation from Venice Township to buy the necessary tools for the project.

During the intervening years, concern had been expressed by Venice City Council members, on occasion, about methods used by the Community Development agency allegedly causing delays in inspections and other procedures.

At the end of 1981, about 25 homes had been rehabilitated and several were waiting for inspection, it was learned. Many applications were denied due to family incomes exceeding the guidelines.

At the present time, between 35 and 40 houses have been completed under the program, but the current status of the project is not immediately known due to funding problems, Mayor Echols said.

The mayor commented

Wednesday that he still hopes the proposed new community center for Venice senior citizens will cost about $200,000 to construct. No figures on cost estimates have been yet received.

"The remaining funds, about $60,000 or $65,000, could then be used to continue the housing rehabilitation program until additional funding is available," he added.

Last December, the aldermen agreed to combine $73,000 in Community Development funds with $109,000 previously earmarked for construction of a new senior community center. It is this money to which Mayor Echols was referring.

Architect sketches of the proposed new center were to be ready for review at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Mayor Echols' office, he announced at this week's meeting.

For further information, interested persons may call Sister Mary Louise in the Social Work Department at 798-3377.

GC woman remains in serious condition

A Granite City woman remains in serious condition this week in the intensive care unit at Pirum Desloge Hospital in St. Louis after being struck by an automobile last week while she was riding a bicycle on Route 111 near Sand Prairie Lane.

Nancy J. Thomas, 26, of 75 Laureate Court, was taken first to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and then transferred to the St. Louis hospital following the accident.

A family member said that Miss Thomas has been in a coma since the accident and is being sustained by life support equipment.

Illinois State Police report that she was riding northbound along the shoulder of Route 111 when she veered onto the highway. She was struck by a northbound car driven by Kenneth E. Bruemmer, 61, of Roxana. He was not injured and there were no charges filed.

REMOVES TOOLS

Tools worth $200 were removed last week from a shed at the home of Elmer Wicker, 2330 Paul Drive, it was reported, to Madison County sheriff's deputies.

Sixty-nine prospective jurors were questioned Wednesday before the selection of a panel of seven women and five men. Many had heard or read of Strick Co. but few remembered any details.

The name most familiar to them was that of Brimberry, who is to be tried in May for allegedly lying about his involvement after an initial confession that had led to a promise of limited prosecution.

The agreement since has fallen apart; instead of being a major witness, Brimberry is now one of the main targets of the Justice Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

It is contended that Massa, a Colinsville attorney, gained majority control of Strick with funds obtained through Brimberry but that persons selling their brokerage ownership were unaware of the source of Massa's money. Potential jurors said they would not be prejudiced by the presence of failed Boston defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, representing Brimberry's wife, the former Justice Skinner, a Pontoon Beach area accountant, is a longtime associate of Brimberry.

It is unknown whether Brimberry will be called, but witnesses are expected to include—Jerry Maers, Leonard Bednar and Arthur Miller Jr.—plus Brimberry's sister, the former Justice Miller, sister of Arthur Jr.

She is slated to be questioned about statements made to her by "other conspirators." She has not been charged with any offense, and hearsay normally is banned; but certain conversations are being described by the U.S. as having furthered the alleged conspiracy.

A motion asking that she be called as a witness asserting that she was active from 1977 to November 1981, including helping print false stock certificates and helping conceal the source of her husband's wealth from the Internal Revenue Service.

GC Council Action at a glance

Other Granite City Council actions and discussions Tuesday included the following:

The Council unanimously endorsed a resolution presented by Glenda Arnett, president of Local 335 Garment Workers Union that supports the union campaign "to roll-back the flood of imported apparel to a controllable level, and give American workers and their employers a chance to compete in the marketplace under fair trade conditions." The union plans to lobby Congress and will talk to representatives and senators during the spring break, she said.

The council decided, at the recommendation of Mayor Paul Schuler, to draft a letter to various local legislators expressing dismay about legislation that increases benefits and pay for municipal employees like firefighters and policemen, but forces the municipalities to pay the increase, rather than the state footing the bill. Schuler said he believes firefighters and policemen deserve increased benefits, but said he does not believe it is fair for the state to enact legislation that would affect municipal taxpayers without first consulting the municipality. "If they don't have enough guts to put their money where their mouth is," he said, "then I think we should tell them (we disapprove)."

Approval was given for $965 plus fare so that Mayor Schuler can attend the U.S. Conference of Mayors on April 26 in Carson, Calif. Schuler told the council that the conference will provide information to help the city in dealing with problems existing in the sanitary sewer system and other relevant topics.

The Almad Temple Shrine was given permission to have its annual circus parade on Monday, June 6, along the same parade route as last year — from the corner of State Street and Niedringhaus Avenue to the 3100 block of Madison Avenue.

The council approved a recommendation that Ray Romine II be promoted to captain and George Nesbitt to engineer, both in the Fire Department, due to the retirement of Capt. Richard Werthe on March 31. The Board of Fire and Police Commissioners, which made the recommendation, also notified the council of the appointment of James R. Snelson to the Fire Department, also to fill a vacancy that exists due to Werthe's retirement.

Clean-up campaign to involve senior citizens

Senior citizens and officers of civic organizations are being invited to attend an informative meeting at the Granite City Township Hall at 2 p.m. Saturday, April 9, sponsored by the Community Betterment Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting is designed to inform the guests of final plans for the annual Clean-up Campaign scheduled for April 16 through April 23, according to Ray Edwards, chairman of the project, and Shirley Adams, public relation chairman and chairman of the senior citizen involvement committee.

"We do not expect the senior citizens or officers of other organizations to actually work in the campaign, however, we hope to solicit their help in informing neighbors, churches and other organizations about the campaign and details for trash pick-up in the Quad-City area," Mrs. Adams explained.

The committees are working to encourage all residents of the area to collect debris in alleys, yards, basements and along the streets and sidewalks for the betterment of the community, the chairman announced.

Immediate following the briefing, entertainment and music will be provided by Wayne Scannell and his band until 5 p.m., Mrs. Adams added.

Representatives of senior citizen clubs or other organizations are being requested to call the Chamber of Commerce office at 876-6400 to register the number of members who plan on attending, the chairman said.

EAST ST. LOUIS MAN FACES TWO CHARGES

An East St. Louis man was arrested by Madison County sheriff's deputies on Highway 157 after he allegedly was seen twice crossing the center line of the highway.

Thomas Mitchell, 60, was charged with driving while under the influence (DUI) of alcohol and not having a valid driver's license.

County acts to avoid Gaslight lagoon overflowing again

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

A "desperate situation" at the sewage lagoon in the Gaslight Walk area prompted the Madison County Sanitary Sewers Committee to take emergency action Monday night and reach an agreement with the lagoon's owner to pump water from the site.

Pumping started Tuesday at 2 p.m. after specifications of the agreement were met, including the condition that the county sewer and its users were not in any danger because of the additional effluent discharge running through the pipes.

The Gaslight Walk area is not tapped on to the county system, but Granite Investment Co., owner of the lagoon, requested emergency assistance from the county, including use of a service area lift station located nearby.

According to the agreement, approval also was needed from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, which has jurisdiction over use of the county sewers, and Granite City had to agree to use of its treatment plant. Granite Investment Co. is solely responsible for paying the city for use of the treatment facility.

Service area superintendent Gene Futch said Tuesday morning that approval had been granted from both the IEPA and the city.

The agreement releases the county from any liability for damages and requires the owners to include the company on a policy of liability insurance.

Futch was notified last weekend that the lagoon, located near Lake Drive, was in danger of flooding because of recent, continuous rains.

It was feared that the levee surrounding the lagoon might break and Futch said water was seeping through.

Futch told the committee that the special service area equipment would not be able to decrease the amount of water in the lagoon, but the levee could be held below the point of flooding and the water "drawn down" so the levee would not break.

He said Wednesday that the water level was being kept constant by the pumping, which was being handled by one three-inch pipe. "We're holding our own," he added.

An alarm system allows employees to keep tabs on the pumping without actually being present to monitor the flow. Should too much sewage be pumped through the pipes, the alarm would sound and employees then could control the flow and alleviate the problem, he said.

While some reluctance was voiced about the service area becoming involved in a situation that should not be its concern, the committee recalled a flood at the lagoon six years ago that sent raw sewage spilling into the yards of nearby mobile homes.

"Because of the potential health problem, we have no alternative," said Frank Dutko, sewer committee member.

Futch and the remaining committee members agreed. "If it breaks, it will crowd Times Beach off the airwaves for at least a few days," said Marshall "Zeke" Smith, assistant state's attorney, to explain the potential health hazard.

Smith was present to represent the service area at a special meeting to settle the Brandon Heights dispute, but the committee decided also that it had to act on the emergency agreement.

More than a year ago, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency indicated a willingness to work with the service area to get Gaslight Walk hooked up to the county system, but nothing was ever done, Smith said.

The IEPA and county officials will meet today at the agency's regional office in Collinsville to discuss the issue.

Miles indicated he is fearful that the lagoon owners will come back to the service area for assistance in the future and that, once aid is given, the county will find itself continuously helping private owners within the county sewer district.

He emphasized that every effort should be taken to protect the county sewer system and its users as the additional effluent discharge is pumped.

To protect the county system, the agreement says that the company can use only one pump with a discharge diameter not to exceed four inches. The pump also must not exceed the rated capacity of 410 gallons per minute of the county lift station.

At any time Futch, his designated representative, or any committee member can order that pumping be ceased, the agreement says.

Further, the company is to be responsible for metering the discharge and provide "a true and accurate statement of the volume of effluent."

Should the company fail to meter the effluent, Futch may estimate the amount of discharge into the sewer system and the company shall be bound by that estimate.

State Representative

Rising crime rates, whether we live in cities or in rural areas, are an increasing concern for all our citizens.

Overcrowded prisons and the associated early release of felons compound the problem. Many people feel that the authority and support of our law enforcement officers has been slowly deteriorating to the point where effective law enforcement is becoming impossible.

Speaker of the House Michael Madigan has instituted a statewide law enforcement advisory committee to study the problem and initiate legislation to help solve it.

It is particularly important, given the special problems of urban areas, that our district law enforcement officers and community activists be involved in formulating ideas toward a solution.

Legislation covering a wide range of issues — including training, enforcement and prosecution — could be studied and in-put specific to our area could be provided.

Some of the enforcement-related legislation already introduced this session:

HOUSE BILL 22. Bill 22 established the Violent Crimes Assistance Act. This bill would require the courts to impose additional graduated fines on defendants convicted of any felony, misdemeanor or vehicle code violation.

Receipts would be deposited in the new Violent Crimes Victims Assistance Fund and would be distributed to assistance centers to provide counseling, assistance and direction to victims.

HOUSE BILL 44. This bill would redefine a peace officer's use of force in making arrests. It provides that an officer can, to effect an arrest, use force which could cause great bodily harm — but only after the officer has attempted "all other reasonable means at his or her disposal" to make the arrest.

HOUSE BILL 321. Creates a fund in the state treasury called the Juvenile Drug Abuse Fund. Takes 50 percent of all funds collected from the Narcotics Profit Forfeiture Act from local police and law enforcement agencies and places the money into this fund.

HOUSE BILL 411. Amends the vehicle code. Suspends a person's driver's license for one year for unlawful use of a weapon.

HOUSE BILL 442. Amends the Firearm Owner's Identification Act to increase the current fee for a firearm owner's identification card from $5 to $10. The person applying for a card would also need to prove that he or she has never been convicted of a felony.

Presently, a person only has to prove that he or she has not been convicted of a felony in the past five years.

HOUSE BILL 29. Changes the definition of the offense of armed violence to provide that the offense is committed by using a dangerous weapon in the commission of a felony, as opposed to being armed with a deadly weapon.

HOUSE BILL 738. Requires law enforcement agencies to provide the Department of Law Enforcement with certain records of individuals arrested for specified sexual offenses within 30 days after such arrest.

This is just a sampling of the broad range of bills affecting law enforcement.

The issues are complex and these bills may or may not reach the goal that is prescribed, just as they may or may not agree with or have the approval of those to whom they apply, or those who have the responsibility of enforcement.

This is why in-put from concerned citizens and law enforcement agencies is essential.

SORORITY POSTS TO TWO FROM GRANITE

Two local women will serve as officers for the Kappa Delta social sorority at Monmouth College.

The executive committee, composed of the president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, editor and membership chair, was elected. The remaining officers were appointed.

Amber Hogan of Granite City was appointed a Panhellenic representative. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hogan, she is a junior English and business administration major.

Karen Spencer of Granite City was elected secretary. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Spencer, she is a sophomore chemistry major.

McKENDREE DINNER TO MARK 155 YEARS

The founding of McKendree College in Lebanon 155 years ago will be recognized at a founders' day dinner to be held at Fischer's Restaurant in Belleville at 7 p.m. Thursday, April 21.

On this occasion, formal announcement will be made of Decade XVI, a comprehensive development program for the continuing Quest for Excellence for McKendree College. Keynote speaker will be Arthur Frantz, a consultant in philanthropy.

Illinois prisoners double in decade

The average prison population in Illinois has more than doubled in the last decade, and despite a 240 percent rise in Department of Corrections spending, overcrowding is still a major problem. Comptroller Roland W. Burris has just reported.

Burris said the inmate population at the end of 1982 totaled 14,964 adults and juveniles, compared to an average of 7,275 in fiscal 1973.

In that period, the department opened three additional prisons and made major improvements to older facilities. A current expansion program will make room for another 1,950 adults and 300 juveniles.

Spending by the corrections agency from the state's general revenue fund in fiscal 1982 totaled $235.5 million, up $165 million in the past decade.

Expenditures from the capital development fund for construction and conversion of correctional facilities also grew dramatically. From $400,000 in 1973, spending reached $29.3 million in 1982.

Total spending from the capital fund from 1979 to 1982 was $140.4 million, which included the construction of two new prisons and the rehabilitation of two others.

To meet the demands of the growing prison population, the number of correctional employees rose 66 percent in the decade to 7,477 — an inmate-to-staff ratio of nearly two-to-one. The large increase was due to staffing of new facilities.

In 1982, cost of incarcerating each adult prisoner averaged $12,560; for juvenile residents, the cost averaged $21,718.

Over the ten-year period, the adult population more than doubled to 13,127, while the juvenile population increased only slightly to 1,130. Of the 12 state correctional facilities, six were considered overcrowded at the end of 1982. The two newest prisons were at capacity and four had an excess, though a limited amount.

To ease the stress, the current expansion program by the Department of Corrections will add 1,950 beds by converting the Dixon Mental Health Center and carrying out new construction at the Vienna Correctional facility. Another 300 juvenile beds will be provided by converting the former Bowen Mental Health facility.

The correctional industries program has shown significant improvement as a result of reorganization and expansion, Burris said. The department operates four farms and ten manufacturing or service facilities. Functions range from raising crops and livestock to refinishing furniture and manufacturing highway signs.

The prison industries program showed a profit of $88,000 in fiscal 1982.

National home sales show marked increase

The strong performance of the existing single-family home sales market in February clearly illustrates public awareness that housing is becoming more affordable. Dr. Jack Carlson, chief economist and executive vice-president of the National Association of Realtors, said today.

February existing-home sales were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2.47 million units — 24.1 percent higher than the 1.99 million rate a year earlier, according to the latest nationwide monthly survey by the association.

"After more than a year of activity near the 2 million unit level, the annual existing-home sales rate now is firmly above that mark and is expected to remain so," said Carlson.

Existing-home sales, which had peaked at an annual rate of 4.02 million in November 1978, bottomed out at 1.86 million last August as housing suffered through its worst decline since the Great Depression. Last month's rate is 32.8 percent above the cyclical low reached in August, Carlson added.

January's home resales annual rate had surged to 2.58 million units, according to the association's revised statistics — a record increase from the previous month's 2.36 million units.

"The 4.3 percent slippage in February came as no surprise because of the severe winter weather last month," the economist said. "The encouraging news is that after the strong surge in January the February sales level remained healthy. In fact, when the seasonal adjustment factors used to calculate the annual rate are removed, the survey shows that there were more actual sales in February than in January — 164,000 last month versus 155,000 the previous month."

"Resale activity is expected to continue on an upward trend this year, next," Carlson added. "Lower mortgage interest rates and the improved affordability accompanying those improved rates are allowing the housing industry to lead the nation out of recession as it has done historically."

Harley W. Snyder of Valparaiso, Ind., president of the National Association of Realtors, stressed that "many factors have combined to make this a good time to buy a home, and the resale figures for the last several months clearly support this."

Mortgage interest rates have fallen from above 17 percent last spring to the 12-14 range. There is a wide variety of homes on the market from which to choose, and home prices have stabilized," Carlson pointed out.

The median price of an existing home sold in February was $68,300 — just $200 more than the revised January level.

However, Carlson said, home prices are likely to accelerate faster than the rate of inflation this spring and for the next few years, even though they have increased only 2.1 percent during the last 12 months, because sales are now growing faster than the supply of available homes.

A quickening in the rate of home price appreciation means that purchasers will be able to reap the benefits of a wise investment when they sell their homes," he said.

February existing home prices in the Northeast region were 1.3 lower than January. In the South prices rose 0.9 percent and in the North Central region they rose 2.7 percent. The West experienced a price decline of 1.4 percent.

Like prices, annual increases in resale volume differed across the various regions of the country.

The North Central region recorded a 37.3 percent increase in resale volume compared with February 1982. The Northeast experienced a 24.2 percent gain for the same period, while resales in the South and West increased 20.8 percent and 7.7 percent, respectively.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, represents more than 600,000 individuals involved in all phases of the real estate industry.

NAMED PROVINCIAL OF ORDER AT RUMA

Sister Mary Catherine Girens, general superior of the Congregation of the Adorers of the Blood of Christ, has announced in a letter from Rome, Italy, that membership of new provincial administration of the Province of Ruma, Ill., is now complete. Members include Sister Marie Voss, provincial-elect.

Sister Joan Marie has been director of the Office of Social Concerns for the Diocese of Springfield-Cape Girardeau, Mo., for the past year. Her previous positions include administrator of the Catholic Children's Home, Alton, for two years, director of novices for the province for many years, and high school teacher.

BURGLARS ENTER NAMEOKI SCHOOL

An inventory was being taken during the weekend to determine what may be missing from Nameoki School on Pontoon Road, where a burglary occurred. The intruders smashed a classroom window on the south side of the building to get into the school, reports said. Every classroom had been entered and the drawers on teachers' desks were opened.

Cabinet doors were left open and the doors on several refrigerators in the cafeteria also were standing open, reports stated.

It appeared the burglars left through a boiler room door, which was found to be unlocked.

Competition in three Madison wards in voting next Tuesday

In the municipal election next Tuesday, April 12, Madison voters will elect four persons as members of the City Council for four-year terms.

Incumbent aldermen are seeking re-election in three wards and Aldermen Mike Sikora and Elmer Smith are retiring. There is competition for three of the four offices to be decided, with one alderman unopposed.

The arithmetic may not sound correct, but is. The explanation:

Under redistricting which reduced the city's wards from five to four Feb. 1, 1983, the number of aldermen is gradually being reduced from ten now to nine after this spring's reorganization and then to eight two years from now.

In the First Ward, Robert Don Reeves was re-elected in 1981 and Paul E. Ashford seeks re-election next week.

In the new Fourth Ward (formerly Fifth), Charles Rockett was elected in 1981 and Alderman Doug E. Garrett is unopposed next week.

Residing in the new Second Ward are Christ Costoff, re-elected in 1981 in Four, and the two aldermen who are retiring from the Council—Elmer Smith, initially elected in 1981, and Mike Sikora, re-elected in 1981 in Four.

In the new Third Ward are William L. Gushleff, who served by appointment before being elected in Ward Two four years ago, Alderman Tom Gordon, re-elected in Three in 1981, and Mrs. Ida Dant. The latter, re-elected in Two in 1981, will serve in an at-large capacity until 1985.

Following are biographies and campaign comments of those running for office April 12:

Paul E. Ashford, 65, the First Ward incumbent, has served as an alderman 10 years. A native Madisonian and lifelong resident of the city, he lives at 1630 Third St. with his wife, Mary.

The Swift & Co. butcher graduated from Madison High School in 1936 and attended night classes in business administration at the Southern Illinois University center in East St. Louis.

He is of the Baptist faith.

Ashford is active in Madison Amvets Post 204, Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307, the Madison Lions Club and the Madison City Organization.

He comments, "I have helped bring many improvements, such as burglar alarms, trash containers, ambulance service and blacktopping of streets and alleys."

"Cable television is under consideration.

"I lack strong leadership to have cost-effective, progressive programs. I believe in capable, dependable and efficient government."

The First Ward ballot also includes Frank Marsala and Alfred Endicott.

Marsala, 29, of 1643 Fifth St. was born in St. Louis and has been a Madison resident 25 years.

He and his wife, Sherri, are the parents of two daughters, Jody, five years old and Jada, two.

Attending Madison public schools, including Madison High School, Marsala performed plumbing and repair work as an employee of Joe's Plumbing and Heating Co.

He previously did maintenance work.

A member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Marsala is seeking public office to give Madison citizens a voice in city government, and to express their wishes and concerns.

"I promise to fully represent the people, 100 percent, and to work for the betterment of the people of Madison," he is telling voters.

Thomas R. George, 36, is one of three running for the City Council in Ward Two.

He was a candidate in the old Ward Three in 1981.

The son of the late Alderman Richard George, he resides at 1703 Elizabeth St. with his wife, Debbie, sons, Tommy and Chris, and daughter, Laurie.

Thomas George is an operating engineer at the Shell Oil Co. refinery. Born in East St. Louis, he is a lifelong Madisonian.

He attended St. Mary's School, Madison High School, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and Lewis and Clark Community College. He is a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

George serves as chairman of the Concerned Citizens Advisory Board. He is a member of Operating Engineers Local 325.

His primary objective is to maintain open channels of communication between the Council and Madison residents.

"By doing this, I will guarantee that taxpayers will be informed when, where, why and how their tax dollars are being spent."

He is concerned that the public currently has "no voice in the yes-men city government."

Robert L. Grieve, 51, one of the three Second Ward candidates, is a Famous Barr appliance technician who previously worked at Granite City Steel.

He has served for six years on the Madison park and recreation commission and is a past president of the Madison Band Parents Club.

He has been area Lions clubs' deputy district governor for two years.

Riskovsky is a member of the Madison Venice Rotary Club, Eagles, Better Business Bureau and Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

He was an unsuccessful candidate for city treasurer in 1977, alderman of the old Fourth Ward in 1979 and mayor in 1981.

His goals are to "create a job placement program, oppose needless utility taxation, restore homes and businesses, build communication and understanding, be available at all times, and form a voluntary committee to call on senior citizens, needy families and the sick."

He cites his business experience and says he is "an involved citizen, close to people's needs."

William L. Gushleff, 43, of 1671 Fourth St. has been an alderman since Sept. 3, 1978, when he was named to replace the late Alderman Donald Broyles.

He won a four-year term in 1979. Gushleff was chairman of the Madison Zoning Board two years, Civic Redevelopment Commission chairman of the Madison Bicentennial Committee in 1976.

Gushleff was chairman of the Madison Board of Education.

A lifelong resident of the city, the 1984-86 Madison teacher is a U.S. history specialist, he became personnel director at the Jewish Center for the Aged in 1969 and for nearly 12 years was a member of the Press-Record news staff, beginning in September 1970.

Strategic received Scouting's Silver Beaver award and was honored by Jaycees as young man of the year, the NAACP as man of the year and the Lions Club as Lion of the year. He holds a United Way publicity chairman award and various photography and writing awards.

Current president of the Madison Concerned Citizens and past president of Madison Rotary, he served as a Cahokia Mound Boy Scout Council vice-president and as coordinator and principal founder of Explorer Post 104-4, a teenage scouting unit specializing in the law enforcement field.

A certified social worker, longtime Boy Scout camp director, police investigator and instructor in criminology and delinquency, Strange is a member of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, Masonic order and American Correctional Association.

He comments, "I'll represent the majority I'll inform residents what's going on, good and bad. I'm concerned about taxes spent on an alarm and TV system, and potential future trash pickup charges."

Aldermen said nothing before the 1981 election and then passed four maximum utility taxes "taxable without representation must end," Strange concludes.

Unopposed in the Fourth Ward, Alderman Don Garrett seeks a third four-year term.

He also serves on the Madison Board of Education, having joined the Council in 1975 and the school board in 1977.

Garrett, 48, of 401 W. 2nd St., a lifelong Madisonian, operates Don Garrett & Associates, a public relations and promotions firm. He formerly edited the East St. Louis Monitor newspaper.

Educated at Washington University, the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, he is a member of the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church and serves of its usher board.

Garrett has a daughter, Joyce, 13 years old.

He is active in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Urban League and Leading Men.

The alderman pledges to "use my God-given talents to help my fellow men, and to continue the progress of the present administration."

He cites progress in street paving, employment, and playground and recreation improvements.

Garrett was one of three candidates for the Madison County Board in District 23 in the March 1982 Democratic primary election.

He served in 1981-82 on the candidate screening committee of the Madison County Democratic Party.

Pack 13 presents awards at banquet

Pack 13 Cub Scouts of St. Elizabeth School celebrated with a blue and gold banquet held in the school cafeteria April 6. An Indian theme was used for the decorations. The Cub Scouts made table ornaments in keeping with an Indian theme.

A buffet style dinner was served to 143 people catered by Petri's Cafe.

Andy Yurko introduced the special guests, which included, Ray Guadette, Uniwah Commissioner, and Mrs. Guadette; David Jesse, a new Uniwah Commissioner; Dave Trower, Scouting Coordinator, and his wife; and Mark Yehling, Pack 13 Scouting Coordinator and his wife.

Also seated at the guest table was Holy Name Society officers, sponsor of Pack 13, George Friedel and Mrs. Friedel. Pack 13's four Tiger Cubs, Tony Yurko, Sunil Kumar, Mike Moran, and Ricky Welborn were also special guests at the banquet.

The scouts and Cubmaster Joe Thomas provided the entertainment. Each Cub Scout made his own Indian costume. Cubmaster Joe Thomas, dressed as an Indian chief, complete with an authentic Indian head dress as he played the part of "Akela." Each of the twelve Webelos Scouts sat around the campfire and told of their most memorable experience in scouting. Then two played the Indian drums they made while Den One Scouts performed an Indian dance.

Awards were presented by Committee Chairman Janet Neidhardt. Doug Buehner of Den One was presented the Bear badge. Den Two cub scout, David Hyers received the Bobcat and Wolf badges as well as one gold and one silver arrow point. Chris Votoupal, Stephen Schaus, and Bruce David were each presented with Wolf badges.

one gold and two silver arrow points. Terrence Yoboy received the Wolf badge, one gold and two silver arrow points. Bryan Kromary and Curt Kessler each received the Wolf badge, one gold and three silver arrow points. Billy Mowery was presented the Wolf badge, one gold and four silver arrow points.

Den Four earned many awards. Chris Barks earned the craftsman and naturalist pins. Steven Evanoff won the craftsman award. Sean Hay and Jimmy Knobloch, each earned a Webelos badge and a craftsman pin. Artist and Craftsman awards were presented to Bryan Neidhardt and Joe Thomas.

Naturalist, Webelos craftsman, scholar and sportsman awards went to Kent Pointer.

Roger Schrenk received artist, scholar, naturalist, sportsman, citizen, traveler, Webelos and craftsman awards. Jeff Thompson earned Webelos, sportsman, artist and craftsman awards.

Craftsman and sportsman pins were awarded to Erik Wolf and Joey Yurko earned craftsman, artist, citizen, outdoorsman and scholar awards. Citizen and craftsman awards were earned by Todd Utz.

Den Four performed the closing ceremony by retiring colors as Webelos Scout Todd Utz played taps.

Bi-State marks 20th year in public transit business

April 1 marked the 20th anniversary of "unified" public mass transportation service in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

On that date in 1963, the Bi-State Development Agency assumed operation of the area's bus and streetcar service from 15 private carriers and consolidated them into one regional system.

The transit system's formation followed a 1959 joint study by the city of St. Louis and St. Louis County, which recommended the consolidation of transit facilities, without which public transit might not survive in the region.

Bi-State was designated to form the regional transit system because it was the only existing entity whose compact allowed interstate operation. The private carriers were bought out in 1963 with a $26.5 million Bi-State bond issue.

In the years that followed, rising costs caused higher fares, which, in turn, caused decreased patronage and a subsequent reduction in service. These were the same conditions with which the private operators had been unable to deal.

In June, 1973, the Missouri Legislature enacted enabling legislation authorizing the creation of a one-half cent transportation sales tax in the city and county to supply public transit.

This was followed in 1974 by the Illinois Downstate Public Transportation Act. With local funding secured, Bi-State was able to receive federal subsidies which, in turn, allowed the agency to reverse the trends of the past. Fares were lowered, routes added and extended and service and equipment improved. For seven years, a constant 25-cent basic fare was maintained, but as inflation drove expenses up, increasing amounts of local and federal subsidies were required to make up the difference between operating costs and income.

Finally, however, expenses reached a point that there was not enough subsidy available. In 1980, fares were doubled, service was reduced and many Bi-State employees were laid off.

Transportation costs have continued to rise and service has had to be reduced. Today, there are 629 peak hour buses operating on 132 routes as compared to more than 800 buses on 159 routes in 1980. Federal subsidy, for years a key source of Bi-State income, has been drastically reduced and the rider has been asked to pay a greater share of the ride.

The community too, is being called upon to decide how much support it wishes to give public transportation. "Looking back on the experience of public ownership, both locally and nationally, one can see that even though things are not perfect now, without public involvement, mass transportation in the St. Louis region would have been in much worse shape. Without Bi-State in St. Louis there would be about 60,000 more cars on the street each day, which would increase bridge and highway traffic, and add to the parking problem. Many people are dependent upon public transportation to get to and from work, shopping, etc. In today's world, public transportation, a necessity for many, cannot survive without substantial help from the public in general," a spokesman said.

North's Whitsell hurls one-hitter

By STEVE WHITWORTH
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Danny Whitsell, pitcher for the Granite City North Steelers, sparked on a gray Wednesday afternoon as he and his teammates defeated the Wood River Oilers 10-0 in a six-inning game.

The junior hurler limited the opposition to a single hit and did not allow a runner to advance beyond second base. He also contributed several fine defensive plays to the Steeler effort.

It was a day when almost everything went right for the North squad. They took advantage of seven walks by the Oilers pitchers and two errors by their fielders to produce ten runs in only six innings.

The game did not begin all that well for Whitsell. He walked the first batter he faced, but the next hitter grounded back to the Steeler pitcher and he alertedly threw the lead runner out at second. One more force out and a pop fly on the infield got the Oilers out of the inning without any damage.

North got its first hit in their half of the opening frame when third baseman Steve Trittschuh slammed a long, two-out double to right center. But, he was stranded when Oiler starter Dennis Krieb struck out first baseman Rod Hessler.

Wood River's third baseman, Tracy Roe, led off the second inning with a hard grounder to Trittschuh. Trittschuh knocked it down, but had trouble finding the handle and his late throw was wide of the bag. No one knew it then, but it was to be Wood River's only safe play of the game.

Roe stole second and the Oilers were threatening, but then Whitsell made one of his good defensive plays that helped him to his shoutout. Oiler catcher Scott Downing hit a sharp grounder back to the mound and Whitsell made a nice pickup. Seeing that Roe was hung up halfway between second and third, North's pitcher made the correct play, running directly at the Wood River baserunner until he was forced to break for third. Whitsell then threw to Trittschuh, who tagged Roe out.

The game remained scoreless until the bottom of the third, as both hurlers were impressive. It was Krieb's loss of control in that inning that led to an explosion by North. A hard thrower, Krieb got wild and walked four Steelers in the frame. Those passes, along with a couple of grounders on the infield and an error by second baseman John Pearson, allowed North to score four runs without the benefit of a hit.

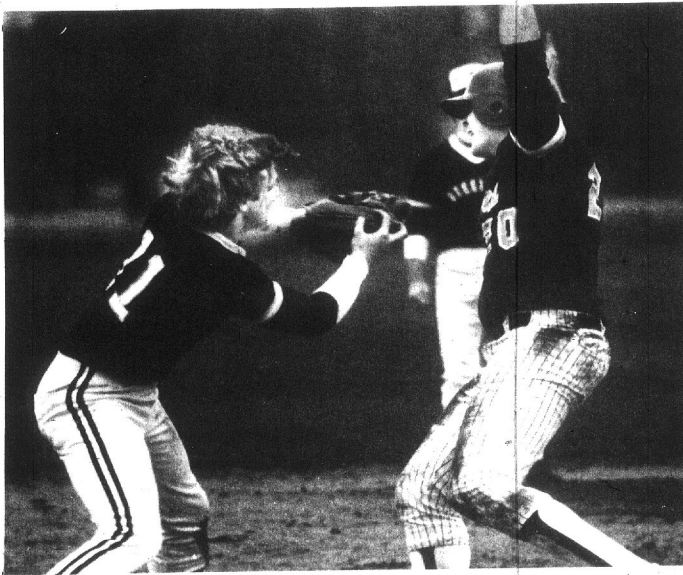

North's first hit of the inning was a scorching line drive down the right field line by right fielder Terry Ruja. It wound up as a two-run triple for the junior. That proved to be all for Krieb, as the Oilers brought in senior Tony Goodrich to relieve. North's senior second baseman, Kevin Patterson, greeted him with a single up the middle and the Steelers led, 7-0.

The score remained the same until the bottom of the fifth, when junior Steve Campbell became the third Oiler batter. He walked North's leadoff batter, catcher Daren DePew, who took third on a single by Ruja. Pinch-hitter Greg Nemeth knocked a ball back to Campbell. His throw to Downing caught DePew coming down the line, but Ruja advanced to third. Pinch-hitter Gerald Booker then grounded to Oiler first baseman, Phil Kladar, whose throw home was too late to get Ruja.

Whitsell, meanwhile, continued to handle the Wood River batters well. He again held them hitless in the top of the sixth and finished the game with four strikeouts and three strikeouts.

The Steelers ended the contest early in their half of the sixth, as they scored two runs to take a 10-run lead for an anticlimactic victory. Singles by shortstop Brian Levin, designated hitter James Moad and Trittschuh loaded the bases. Pinch-hitter Keith Coakley then sent the fans home with a two-run single.

The Steelers crowded around to congratulate both Coakley and, especially, Whitsell. Many of them felt the right-hander should have been credited with a no-hitter, but he had to settle for the one-hitter.

NOT THIS TIME. Wood River's Tracy Roe tried to advance to third on a grounder to Granite City North pitcher Dan Whitsell, but Whitsell was prepared for the play and threw to North's Steve Trittschuh (11). Roe tried to get around Trittschuh but got no avail. North won Wednesday's game 10-0 in six innings.

Whitsell was disappointed that he didn't get the no-hitter, but was happy to pick up his second one-hitter of the young season. His previous gem came against last year's Illinois Class A champions, New Lenox-Provident.

"I was mostly throwing my fastball," Whitsell said. "I was holding it in different ways and that was making it

Whitsell has now worked 10 consecutive scoreless innings. "The coach made me a little nervous at the beginning of the game by talking to me a lot," Whitsell said. "But, I settled down by the second inning."

Stegemeier said, "Our hitting is coming around, although, not everybody is pounding the ball yet. We made a few mistakes on the basepaths, but they were aggressive mistakes. I don't care if they make those kind of mistakes, because it shows they're trying."

Grote, Menendez, Levin sign with WIU soccer

GRANITE CITY — Two Granite City South soccer players and one Granite City North soccer player have announced they have signed to play soccer for Western Illinois University next year.

Barry Grote, a link for the Warriors, John Menendez, a back for South, and Brian Levin, a midfielder for the Steelers have all signed to play for the Leathernecks of WIU next year.

All three are expected to see plenty of playing time next year for WIU. John McKenzie, WIU coach, is rebuilding his program next season, and his plans to use a lot of Illinois talent to do so. Grote, Menendez and Levin are expected to do just that.

All three athletes will receive tuition scholarships are trying to obtain academic scholarship. Grote plans to study computer science, Menendez plans to enter business, and Levin plans to major in biology and hopes to go into a pre-optometry program.

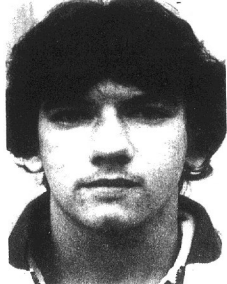

Grote chose WIU because of the computer science program. He had also been contacted by McKendree College and Northeast Louisiana State University.

"I thought it would fit into my career plans, and they do have a pretty big computer science program," Grote said. "Grote is likely to play in the midfield as he did in high school."

Prep netters expect to improve and win

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

As a team, Granite City South's tennis team had a 7-14 record, but the Warriors advanced two players, John Menendez and Matt Sheridan, to the state finals last season.

The Warriors are expecting better things to happen this year. Meanwhile, Granite City North and Madison are hoping their tennis programs can make the big turn to respectability this year.

As far as the Metro-East area is concerned, the three Belleville high schools, East, West and Althoff, and O'Fallon seem to have the best tennis in the area. East has already defeated the Warriors 9-0 this season, but the Warriors seem to have the best chance of any of the three teams to make waves in the area tennis scene.

GRANITE CITY SOUTH

The Warriors have been slated to be one of the teams to battle in their district tennis tournament, and the two big reasons why they are Menendez and Sheridan.

Menendez, a senior, has been to the state tournament the last three years and is likely to make another trip up to the state finals as the Warriors' number one player. Sheridan, a junior, has been to the state tournament the last two years and is the Warriors' number two player.

Menendez was 11-9 last year, and Sheridan was 12-8 last year. As a doubles team, Menendez and Sheridan were 10-5.

"John is a pretty well-rounded tennis player, and Matt has been playing good tennis as well," South Coach Richard Harmon said.

Although Harmon has two solid players to lead his squad, he thinks the key to South's success will be on the shoulders of the other players.

"If some of our young kids can get a little bit better, we can improve accordingly," Harmon said. "If they come around, we'll have a decent team this year."

The other singles players include freshman Robbie Lombardi and senior Charles Miles. Menendez and Sheridan are South's top doubles team. Lombardi and Don Kaltmeyer are the second doubles team, and Kevin Dickerson and Jerry Laken make up the third doubles team.

GRANITE CITY NORTH

Unlike South, the Steelers have never sent a tennis player to the state finals. North Coach John VanBuskirk hopes North will close its tennis program by sending players to the state finals.

VanBuskirk is still looking for a second and third doubles team, and if he can find the right combination, North could do much better than in recent years.

David Lipe will be the top singles player for North this season. The other three singles players include Keith Glasgow, Jesse Byrd and Scott Dennis. "All of the challenge matches for the singles have been really close," VanBuskirk said. "Scott is going to be an awfully tough number four player for us. Lipe and Dennis have worked hard over the off-season."

Lipe and Glasgow will be North's top doubles team, but the other two doubles teams are still question marks for North. Byrd, Dennis, David Goff, David Warfield, Tim Black and Tony Watson are all competing for the other doubles spots.

"I'm not yet satisfied with what I've seen in the doubles. It might take us until the middle of the season to decide what the teams are," VanBuskirk said.

"If our doubles teams can come around, we'll be an average team this year. That means we'll be better than we have been before. You can never tell if we'll send anyone to state this year," VanBuskirk said.

MADISON

Last year, the Madison tennis team was 0-6, but the Trojans plan to improve on that as five players from last year return for another year.

Allan Boyd, the Trojans' top player, Decrairie Arnold, the number two player, Darryle Shipp, the number three player, and doubles players Lamont Walker and Michael Chapman are back for their second year on the Trojans.

"Last year, we had all first year players," Madison Coach Terry Beer said. "This year, we should do much better. We had a better class of athlete out this year, and we're picking up the game pretty rapidly."

Other Trojans include number four singles player Terron Brown and doubles players Lamont Walker, Nino Arnold.

"We should win at least two or three matches this year, and we have a much bigger schedule than we had last year, so that should help us," Beer said.

Cahokia gives North runners a track lesson

GRANITE CITY — It was easy to see what Granite City North track coach Harry Lang was frustrated Wednesday with North's performance in a dual track meet with Cahokia.

The Steelers took it on the chin to the much quicker Comanches 100-46. According to Lang, it was the worst defeated any North team had suffered in a dual meet in the 10-year history of the program.

"Our performers did not do very well at all. At the varsity level, you have to have varsity performances. Today, we just didn't have them," Lang said.

The Steelers picked up four first places out of the 18 events run Wednesday. In addition, Cahokia finished 1-2-3 in both the 100 and 200 meter dashes, finished 1-2 in the 400 meters and finished first in all four relays.

"We just didn't have enough first places," Lang said. "You can't win a dual meet with that few first places."

Part of the reason North did as poorly as he did was because 800 meter runner Darrin Bernaia was out of the line-up. Bernaia suffered an injury in a physical education class and could not run. Lang does not know when Bernaia will be able to run at full strength.

"Not have Bernaia really affected us in the two-mile relay," Lang said. "He has been one of our best performers so far this year, and it's hard to say how far back this injury will put him."

The first place finishers for North were Ken Kalka in the 3200 meters (10:36.1), Jim Robertson in the 800 meters (2:11), David Long in the triple jump (40-3) and Scott Cant in the high jump (5-10).

Second place finishes included Robertson in the 1600 meters, Cant in the high hurdles, Jon Dobler in the high jump, Richard More in the pole vault, John Morris in the shot put and Paul Ballew in the discus.

Third place finishers were Doug Linbaugh in the 800, Craig Patton in the 400, Cant in the 300 low hurdles, Long in the long jump, Al Prengel in the triple jump, Jeff Gray in the high jump, Dobler in the pole vault and Morris in the discus.

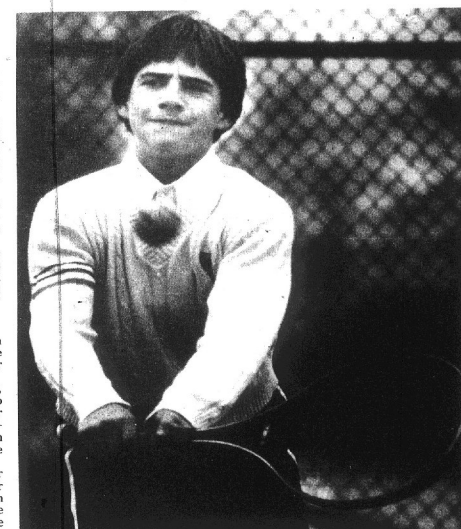

The 800 relay team of Prengel, John Kindle, Long and David Tatum missed win its event by just one-tenth of a second.

The weather has created its share of problems for North so far this year. The Steelers have run only "two and a half" meets this year outdoors, and that has created a problem with practice schedules.

The Steelers usually have a light practice the day before a meet, but the weather and the rescheduling makes it hard to have a good workout because of the possibility of a meet the next day.

"You just have to decide some time that you have to practice to get better. We didn't try to burn them out the day before the meet, but we might have felt the effects of it," Lang said.

The boys from North, South and Madison will run in the Mineral Area Invitational Track Meet Saturday, weather permitting. The meet begins on the Belleville East track at 11 a.m. All of the area track teams, including East St. Louis, Lincoln and East St. Louis (Sr.) will be at the meet.

YOUTH. Youth is a keyword for all three area tennis teams. Even experienced teams like Granite City South have to rely on freshman like Robbie Lombardi (above) to field a team. Lombardi and the other Warriors had little problem defeating Cahokia Monday 7-0.

South, North split net matches

For Granite City South, Monday's 7-0 victory over Cahokia was a means of getting even. For Granite City North, Wednesday's 4-1 loss to Wood River meant falling behind.

The Warriors evened their season record at 1-1 with its lopsided Gateway East Conference win at Cahokia. The Steelers opened their season with a non-conference loss at the Wilson Park courts.

In South's season opener with Belleville West, every Warrior player was shut out. Just the opposite happened Monday.

Number one player John Menendez picked up the Comanches' Chuck Boehning 6-0, 6-0; Matt Sheridan defeated Gary Frost 6-2, 6-1; freshman Robbie Lombardi beat Jim Zarlingo 6-2, 6-0; and Charles Miles defeated Scott Morga 6-4, 4-6.

In doubles, Menendez and Sheridan beat Boehning and Zarlingo 6-2, 6-1; Lombardi and Dan Kaltmeyer beat Frost and Tom Sullivan 6-4, 6-4; and Kevin Dickerson and Jerry Laken defeated Tim Criter and John Holzman 6-0, 3-6, 6-1.

The Steelers weren't quite as fortunate in their rain-shortened match. The only North winners were the doubles team of Todd Watson and Tim Black, who defeated Tim Hall and Roy Federchek 6-1, 6-3.

North's top player David Lipe lost to Brock Borman 6-0, 6-0; Keith Glasgow lost to Rick Kuehnle 6-2, 6-0; and Jesse Byrd lost to Tom Sawyer 4-6, 6-2, 6-3. Lipe and Glasgow lost to Morman and Greg Mormino 6-0, 6-4.

North's David Goff came close to defeating Brad James, but the match was called because of the rain. Goff was ahead 6-4, 6-7, 6-5 when the rains came.

"We have to be able to play games, play sets and play matches now that we're out on the courts playing instead of practicing," North coach John VanBuskirk said.

Three sign with WIU

Menendez, who is also South's top tennis player, said WIU was the first school that talked to him. The strength of the university's business program helped to sway him to WIU. Menendez had also considered Aurora College and Northern Illinois University.

"Their program had dropped a little bit, and I hope I can help them bring the program back up," Menendez said. "I feel we have kind of a head start ahead of most players because of the coaching we've had, and I think that will help us."

If Menendez is offered a scholarship for tennis, he will play that too, but he is uncertain whether he would play without a scholarship. Grote will only play soccer for WIU.

Grote is ranked 13th in his graduating class at South, and Menendez is ranked 20th in the class.

Levin, whom North Coach Bob Kehoe considered one of the most underrated players in the area, also had several colleges recruiting him, both McKendree and MacMurray colleges and the University of Alabama-Huntsville had talked to Levin.

"I really like the environment at Western," Levin said. "I know they're going to have a rebuilding team, and I think I will have a good chance to play."

All three athletes agreed that the competition WIU plays is excellent and that they will be looking forward to the competition.

WIU is a NCAA Division I school, and the Leathernecks play caliber teams such as Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Eastern Illinois University, St. Louis University and Cleveland State University.

Incidentally, there will be Granite City athletes at all four schools. Steve Tritschuh of North will be at SIUE, Randy DeRousse of St. Eastern, David Fernandez at St. Louis University and David Paz is at Cleveland State.

Tri-City Speedway opens Friday

Tri-City Speedway in Granite City will open the 1983 Auto Racing Season for the 22nd year Friday night, April 8.

Switching from Saturday night to Friday night racing year will eliminate the conflicts to the other tracks that run their races on Saturday nights and will let the drivers and car owners run their cars at three different race tracks on the same weekend.

Tri-City Speedway will be racing the late model stock cars, the mighty modifieds, the street stock cars and the mini-modifieds, every Friday night.

Kenny Schrader, last year's USAC dirt champ champion, is expected to be on hand driving his stop-and-go Mustang.

Mustang is Len Gittimer of St. Charles, Mo., USAC stock car rookie of the year in 1979. Many other top names are expected as the late models will be running under the NASCAR rules and point system. Randy Weeks, Bayview and Rod Bailey all of Granite City are expected with their late models. John Ritchie and Mike Strange of Granite City should be on hand with their mighty midgies.

Gates will open at 6 p.m. with races starting at 7 p.m. Adults will be $5 and children $1.

Sykes, Parker on Peru State team

Kevin Sykes and Jeff Parker, both graduates of Granite City South High School, will play major roles in the success of the Peru State College baseball team of Peru, Neb. Sykes, who attended Lewis and Clark Community College in Godfrey, is the starting second baseman for Peru. He is the son of Shirley and Kaye Sykes.

Parker, a transfer from Illinois State University, will be an assistant student coach this year for the team. He is the son of L. Clay and Marilyn Parker.

All-City Vocal Music Festival set Saturday

The Granite City Music Department will present its seventh annual All-City Vocal Music Festival, Saturday, April 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the Granite City High School South Memorial Gymnasium.

Joe Grant of the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana, will be this year's guest conductor. Grant currently coordinates the undergraduate choral music education program and teaches advanced conducting, choral methods and conducts the University Madrigal Singers.

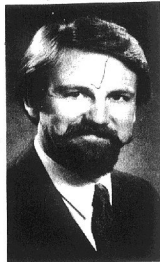

Prior to his appointment at the University, he was choral director at Danville High School and his groups participated in state and national festivals and competitions, including a performance at the MENC Bi-Regional convention in 1976.

Grant is currently serving as the District 3 chairman for Illinois ACDA and is the faculty sponsor of the University of Illinois MENC student chapter.

The elementary, junior high and high school choruses will be rehearsing with Grant throughout the day of the performance.

This music festival will include chorus students from the Granite City area schools.

The district music consultant is Joseph Owens and Mrs. Patricia Michaeloff is the local music specialist.

JOE GRANT

Tickets may be purchased from any chorus member or at the door. Prices are 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students.

Steen ends Beirut duty

Marine Lance Cpl. Mitchell D. Steen, son of Ellen L. and Ray W. Steen Jr. of 286 Sunny Shores, Mitchell, has returned from a deployment to Beirut, Lebanon, while serving as a member of the multi-national peacekeeping force.

He is a member of the Battalion Landing Team, 3rd Battalion, 8th Marine Regiment, 24th Marine Amphibious Unit, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

The 1,900 member 24th MAU patrolled East Beirut in conjunction with the Lebanese Army, French and Italian troops.

The 24th relieved the 32nd

MAU of peacekeeping efforts in early November, spending the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday season in Lebanon.

Marines were first ordered to the war-torn nation last June to participate in evacuation of American citizens and foreign nationals. They returned to Lebanon in August 1982 to supervise evacuation of the PLO, and in September as part of the peacekeeping force.

TOUCH, BUT DON'T SMELL. An Amorphophallus riverii plant is inspected, very carefully, by Shankar Nair, chairman of the department of biological sciences at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. One of the largest flower clusters of any of the flowering plants, this one grew six feet in 10 days prior to producing the bloom shown. The plant also gives off a powerful stench, compared to that of a rotting carcass. The plant was a gift to SIUE by Mrs. Elva Geers of Edwardsville.

Health Fair '83 at SEMC April 19

Tuesday, April 19, area residents can receive numerous health screenings, counseling and educational materials during St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Health Fair from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Kaender's Pavilion (main lobby).

"The Health Fair provides, at a very low cost to each individual, an opportunity to gather information about preventive health services, nutrition, exercise, self-examination, warning signs and early detection," said Jack Grieves, SEMC assistant vice president and site coordinator.

Not meant as a replacement for physical examinations, Health Fair '83 provides the means for area residents to receive free medical tests for such things as anemia, blood pressure, height and weight, diabetes, respiratory ailments, vision, glaucoma and, new this year, colorectal examinations.

A blood chemistry test will be available again this year at a cost of $8. Individuals are asked to fast 12 to 14 hours prior to the test, drinking only water. "If participants have eaten, the test can still be taken," says Grieves. "However, the results will not be as accurate."

Several new exhibits have been added to Health Fair. One exhibit will allow individuals to experience certain eye disorders such as glaucoma, cataracts, macular degeneration, diabetic retinopathy and detached retina.

Another booth, manned by the Medicare-Glaser Corp. of St. Louis, will concentrate on drug interactions. "Persons can bring in a list of the medications they are taking, and have it fed into a computer to determine possible side effects caused by the interaction of these drugs, which they may not be aware of," says Grieves.

In 1982, more than 600 residents attended Health Fair. "And this year, we expect between 600 and 800 people," says Grieves. "Due to the number of people taking part in the fair last year, there were problems with congestion. This year, upon registering, visitors will be given a number and processed accordingly, thus eliminating the congestion. It also will save time if individuals bring the name and address of their physician."

"The busiest hours of the fair are between 8 a.m. and noon. Those who can may want to wait until the afternoon hours to attend.

"Free parking and adequate seating also will be available to those people attending the fair," Grieves noted.

Health Fair Week has been scheduled for April 17 through 24 throughout the Greater St. Louis area and is co-sponsored by KSDK, General American Life Insurance Company, the St. Louis Bi-State Chapter of the American Red Cross and the National Health Screening Council for Volunteer Organizations.

This is the fourth year SEMC has participated in Health Fair Week. Persons with questions may contact the Public Relations Department at 798-3167.

Granite 650 hosts 'guest night'

Granite Chapter 650, Order of the Eastern Star, held a special guest night meeting with officers from the Metro-East Angels business club filling the officer positions of the local chapter. Special guests were Lucille Branding, Edwardsville Chapter, worthy matron; Norman Branding, Edwardsville Chapter, worthy patron; Vivian McDonald, Waterloo Chapter, associate matron; William Snodgrass, Waterloo Chapter, associate patron; Marie Kiebler, Carle Chapter, secretary; Charlotte Walton, Shipman Chapter, treasurer; Wilma Shelton, Mascoutah, conductress; Edna Overholtz, Unity Chapter, associate conductress; Jackie Hawkers, Hermon Chapter, chaplain; Shirley Morrison, Rob Morris Chapter, Marshall; Louise Hecke, Monroe Chapter, organist; Sandra Darling, Collinsville Chapter, Adah; Barbara Potts, Belleville Chapter, Ruth; Hazel Grugg, Walton Chapter, Esther; Belva Edwards, Bethalto Chapter, Martha; Ann Green; Alton Chapter, Electa; Edith Cheney, Jerseyville Chapter, warder; Patricia Friedman, Wood River Chapter, sentinel; and William Hawkers, Heron Chapter, flag bearer.

Officers serving for the evening were introduced by Worthy Matron Della Aulbaugh and Worthy Patron Earl French. Lois Bilyre, soloist for the year, sang "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands" to the visiting worthy matrons and patrons coordinating with the theme for the evening, "Around the World."

The coin collection for the evening was donated to the local chapter for the Heart Fund. Several songs honoring other local chapters were sung by the Mrs. Bilyre, during the coin collection. Escorted and introduced were: Ruby Germann, Grand Esther of Illinois; Irma Henning, Grand Representative of Tennessee in Illinois and business instructor for the Angels business club; Worthy Matrons of 1982, Mrs. Bilyre then sang "What the World Needs Now" to Mrs. Henning. Also escorted were Grand Representative of New Brunswick in Illinois Deanne Dillard; Grand Representative of Indiana in Illinois Edith Cheney; and Grand Representative of Idaho in Illinois Oma South.

Eight grand lecturers, and 33 Grand Chapter Committee members of which 24 were past matrons and nine past patrons, were also escorted as they were a worthy matron and eight worthy patrons not serving in stations for the evening.

Members were reminded of the death of Mrs. Vee Thorne's brother and the members present sang "Happy Birthday" to him.

The guests and local chapter members dressed for the evening in costumes from world-wide countries.

Following the meeting, the chapter adjourned to the dining room at the invitation of Worthy Patron Earl French, where the tables were decorated with dolls acquired by the worthy matron on her travels around the world. The refreshment table was covered with a collage of fabrics from various countries and the salad buffet was presented on service pieces from foreign countries. In addition to the table decorations, an interest table was presented at the front of the stage with additional fabrics and souvenirs collected by Mrs. Aulbaugh.

The next meeting will commence at 8 p.m. on Friday, April 22, and will be an official visit of the worthy matron and patron and their official family.

County EOC to meet tonight

Picnic May 6 honors seniors

Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission will meet at 7 o'clock tonight at the Edwardsville Township Community Building, 216 Crane St., Edwardsville, to discuss new guidelines for distribution of commodities.

Township officials and those involved in the project are urged to attend and discuss problems they are encountering with the project, according to Opal L. Davis, deputy director of operations.

The month of May has been proclaimed by the president as "Older Americans Month," a time set aside to recognize the value of senior citizens in their communities.

Belleville Area College Programs and Services for Older Persons, 201 North Church St., Belleville, is inviting all seniors to celebrate May 6 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. at a "kick-off picnic" at St. Luke's School playground, across from the PSOP Building.

The picnic will be outdoors. Entertainment, music, dancing, crafts and clowns will be featured, and food and refreshments will be served by various senior organizations for a nominal cost.

For more information, interested seniors may call 1-234-4410.

Deadline next week for Todoroff dinner

Reservations are due prior to Tuesday, April 15, from persons wishing to attend a May 20 dinner-dance honoring Robert D. Todoroff, retiring band director at Granite City High School. North and former director at Coolidge Junior High School. All friends of the retiree, co-workers, former band students, members and former members of band parents' groups and the community-at-large are being invited to attend, according to Wilma Bowen, president of the North Band Parents Organization, which is arranging the event.

The dinner-dance will take place at Augustine's Restaurant, Belleville, starting with a cocktail hour and cash bar at 6 p.m. Friday, May 20, followed by dinner at 7 p.m. and dancing beginning at 9 o'clock.

Cost of the dinner and dance is $10 per person and reservations are limited and must be received by April 15, Mrs. Bowen advised.

Checks for the tickets should be made payable to the Granite City North Band Parents Organization and mailed to: Mrs. William Gaumer, 2572 Waterman Ave., Granite City, Ill., 62040.

Individuals reserving tickets are being asked to include their full name or names, address and telephone number.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Bowen at 797-0314 or Mrs. Gaumer at 931-3682.

Butter, cheese distribution Friday

Distribution of surplus butter and cheese to low income residents will take place Friday in the Quad-Cities area, the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission has announced.

For Venice Township residents, distribution will be at the township office, 1502 Fifth St., Madison, starting at 9 a.m. The township will receive 4,455 pounds of cheese and 2,330 pounds of butter.

Nameoki Township distribution will be at the State Park Community Center and at the Nameoki Township building, 4250 Highway 162, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

Chouteau Township residents may obtain free cheese and butter beginning at 9 a.m. at the township office, Rural Route 2, Box 6974, on North Thorngate Drive.

Proof of residency in the township of distribution must be provided. Families with one to three persons will be allowed five pounds of cheese and three pounds of butter, four to six persons are allowed 10 pounds of cheese and six pounds of butter, and families with seven or more persons are allowed 15 pounds of cheese and nine pounds of butter.

Water slide rally Monday in Venice

In support of the proposed water slide project in Venice, for which voter approval will be sought in the Venice Park District election Tuesday, April 12, a "pep rally" is planned at 6:30 p.m. Monday, April 11, at the Venice Recreation Center, 320 Broadway.

The rally is being sponsored by the Peoples' Organization to Benefit Children of Venice, according to the Rev. John Williams, president. Rev. Williams also is urging residents of the park district to lend their support to the issue and to punch '67' on the ballot. "This is a once-in-a-lifetime golden opportunity, so support yourselves and your children," he said of the water slide proposition. Free refreshments and balloons will be available at the rally, to which adults and children are invited.

Venice Park District residents will be asked to vote Tuesday on a $200,000 bond issue referendum that sponsors believe will result in a revenue-producing water recreation area for Lee Park.

In addition to the slide, other projects earmarked for the bond issue funds are a community bathhouse—concession stand—video arcade pavilion, bumper board area, park fountain, playground, playground equipment purchases and baseball diamond improvements.

Foreign Policy class tours Eastern sites

The Foreign Policy class of Granite City High School spent the Easter vacation, touring New York City and Washington, D.C. In an effort to learn first-hand about major foreign policy issues, the class spent three days attending foreign policy briefings at the highest levels of government.

In Washington, D.C., Alan Saffrin of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee staff provided a private briefing and a question and answer session for the class. The session was conducted in the Foreign Relations Committee hearing room, with the students being allowed to sit at the desks of the senators. A wide range of world problems were discussed, including, El Salvador, the Middle East, Nuclear Freeze Movement and Foreign Aid.

The students questioned Saffrin about the views of the committee on these problems.

Next the students were the guests of the British Embassy in Washington. An embassy is usually not open to the general public, but the British were impressed that high school students were studying foreign policy and provided a briefing.

The class was greeted by Peter Hall, press attaché of the Embassy staff. He first explained the operation of the largest embassy in Washington and then allowed the students to ask questions. Topics discussed included, the duties of an ambassador, the nuclear freeze movement in England and Europe, the lessons of the recent Falkland War and British aid to the United States for its support in the Falkland War. The students found this an interesting and informative experience. While in Washington the group also visited the Capitol, Smithsonian Museum, White House, Ford's Theater, and Arlington National Cemetery.

In New York City, the highlight of the trip was a tour of the United Nations. A detailed explanation of the U.N. operation was given by a guide from the People's Republic of China. Voting procedures were explained as was a recent Security Council meeting on Nicaragua.

During the New York segment of the trip the class toured the New York Stock Exchange, visited the Federal Reserve Bank, the World Trade Center, Empire State Building and attended a Broadway play.

The office of Illinois Senator Charles Percy, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, arranged the foreign policy briefings for the students.

The Granite City School district was complemented for giving the students the opportunity to develop an interest in the subject. Saffrin of the Foreign Relations Committee staff, praised the students for the quality of their questions and interest.

The class is taught by Phil Shatto, who organized the trip. He was assisted by Al Zebio, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kutsky. The money for the trip was earned by the students.

Students on the trip were, Grant Moss, John Rutledge, Terry Loyd, Jeff Melford, Ford Pitzer, John Finke, Bruce Holt, Amy Hartman, Jan Shiley, Paula DeKunz, Cathy Sandall, Karen DeRousse, Mae Ping Patrick, Renne Petrillo, Rhonda Anderson, Carolotti Scott, Lisa Millsap and Ingar Gustafson.

Bi-State installing 'standby' fareboxes

In an effort to increase revenue collection and to reduce passenger delays due to farebox malfunctions, the Bi-State Development Agency has started installing "standby" fareboxes on the entire bus fleet. "The standby farebox," according to Michael H. Setzer, general manager of transit, "will provide an inexpensive solution to a problem that Bi-State has faced for some time."

According to Setzer, Bi-State faced a dilemma when an electronic farebox would fail or become jammed. "If we stop the bus to repair the farebox or send for a replacement bus, our passengers are inconvenienced. And if we keep the bus in service, the passengers are on-time, but we lose money. Neither situation was really acceptable," he said.

"The solution," Setzer continued, "is both simple and inexpensive." Small stainless steel standby fareboxes are being attached to the main fareboxes. When the main farebox fails, the standby will be called into action. The standby is sealed until it is needed and is completely secured. Setzer cautioned passengers "to use the correct change, since the standby boxes, like the electronic fareboxes, are not accessible to bus operators or passengers." "We think it is an excellent solution to our problem," Setzer said. "Bi-State needs every fare, and now we can collect them without any inconvenience to our passengers."

Divers spring checkout Sunday

The Bubblemasters Scuba Diving Club will sponsor its annual spring checkout for divers from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, April 10, at the Edwardsville YMCA.

All area divers, whether members of the Bubblemasters or not, are invited to take this opportunity to bring their diving gear for a voluntary equipment safety check. Gary Giovanni, club president, said.

No charge will be made for the gear inspection and divers also may enjoy a couple of hours of free swimming, water sports and fun, the officer advised.

The Bubblemasters club is based in Granite City, but its membership includes many divers from other Madison County communities. "All divers and prospective divers are cordially invited to take part in Sunday's event, Giovanni said.

ALLEGEDLY SHOUTS AT PASSING AUTOS

William Todd Wallace, 20, of 2235 Ohio Ave., found by police lying on his back in the Crossroads Plaza shopping center lot at 11:50 p.m. Tuesday, was charged with disorderly conduct for allegedly shouting at passing motorists in the 3100 and 3700 blocks of Nameoki Road a few minutes earlier.

Upon being arrested, he also was booked on a 1982 theft case in which authorities said he had been ordered to serve three days in the Madison County jail.

Word of Life Tabernacle choir presents musical

The Word of Life Tabernacle Choir performed a special gospel musical on Sunday, April 9, at the 11 a.m. service, under the direction of Mrs. Betty Gay. Accompanists were Mrs. Jean Keeling, organist, Miss Lisa Crippen, pianist, Miss Brumitt, drums and Mike Lewis, guitar.

"Born To Die" was the opening selection followed by "The Little Boy From the Carpenter's Shop" by Ron and Tammy Stegmeyer. Other choir renditions were "Lonely Road Up Calvary's Way" and "The King is Coming."

Younger members of the vocal group sang, "The Night Before Easter" followed by Ron Stegmeyer singing "I Died, I Rose," and Tammy Stegmeyer performing "I Find No Fault in Him."

Other members of the Acts 4:13 "... And they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus."

The Apostles Peter and John had been with Jesus. The results were evident: They were filled with boldness. This boldness enabled them to preach about Jesus and the Kingdom of God.

We, too, can receive boldness by association with Christ for any task set before us. Remember, we can do all things through Christ who strengthens us.

Christ will be found where you want Him to be. In other words, you do not just find Him at church or in religious settings. When you pray, He is there to answer you. When you are weak, He is there to strengthen you. When you are fearful, He is there to give you boldness, it will influence others around you. They will see that you have been with Jesus.

Why not draw nigh to Him? Today.

Former resident accepts pastorate in Cambridge

The Rev. Robert E. Sabo Sr., of Sheldon, Ill., formerly of Granite City has accepted a call to the pastorate of the United Methodist Church in Cambridge, Ill. The Sabo family will reside in Cambridge after April 14, the official date of his transfer.

Rev. Sabo and his family came to Sheldon in March 1978 after serving as pastor of the Melvin United Methodist Church for five years. He served The United Methodist Church of Sheldon as minister.

He attended Wesleyan Conservatory of Music and Mercer University located in Macon, Ga., before he was graduated from Valdosta State College in Valdosta, Ga., where he was granted the A.B. degree in 1969. He then attended Candler School of Theology at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., and received his Master of Divinity Degree in 1962. He served with the U.S. Air Force and played with the Third Air Force Band and Symphony Orchestra (14th Air Force), from 1950-53.

Pastor Sabo served several churches in Georgia both while attending school and after graduation. He has also been a school teacher and served as assistant principal of a 1200 student elementary school in Georgia. He transferred to Central Illinois Conference of the United Methodist Church in 1964.

He has done post-graduate work at Garrett Theological Seminary at Northwestern University. Pastor Sabo is listed in Who's Who in the Methodist Church, Who's Who in America (1980-1981), 1977-78 edition of Personalities of the West and Midwest, Who's Who in the West, Who's Who in the Midwest, and Who's Who in Religion.

Mrs. Martha Sabo is the former Martha McNelly of Louisville, Ga. She attended Parkland College in Champaign, Ill. They have five children—Robert, Donna, Tammy, Teresa, and Michelle. They also have three grandchildren.

Teresa, 15, who is a sophomore, and Michelle, 12, a seventh grader, are still at home.

Rev. Sabo has been active in both church work and civic activities in Iroquois County in Illinois.

He was president of the Sheldon Ministerial Association, member of the Volunteer Service Board of Iroquois County, Coordinator of the Chaplaincy Program at Iroquois County Hospital, president of the Sheldon Athletic Boosters Club, member of the Watseka Ministerial Association, Communication Coordinator of the Pontiac District, Coordinator of the Sheldon Township Youth Commission and a Telecare Driver for the Volunteer Service.

Concordia Lutheran to hear Rev. Meyer

Concordia Lutheran Church, 2301 Grand Ave. will observe an annual Lutheran Hour, Radio Mission, Sunday, April 10, at 10:15 a.m.

Special guest speaker for the occasion will be the Rev. Dale Meyer, assistant professor of exegetical and practical theology at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, where he is also director of resident field education for the seminary. Prof. Meyer also serves as a pastoral advisor to the International Lutheran Laymen's League, which serves as sponsor for the radio mission. The Lutheran Hour.

Prof. Meyer's topic for Sunday will be "Share Christ?", which he'll base on the post-Easter gospel: John 20:19-31.

In its 52nd year of broadcasting, The Lutheran Hour is carried by approximately 1,100 radio stations in the United States and Canada and by an additional 720 stations around the world. Each week The Lutheran Hour is broadcast in 35 languages to an estimated 40 million listeners in 125 countries around the world.

Arriving in Granite City next week will be Concordia Lutheran Church's new pastor and his family, the Rev. and Mrs. David Raetz and two daughters, coming from Mobile, Ala. Pastor Raetz's installation service and reception will be held on April 10 at 7 p.m.

Conducting the rite of installation will be the Rev. D. Alvin Kollman, president of the Southern Illinois District. Preaching the installation sermon will be the Rev. Robert Brown, circuit counselor and associate pastor at Trinity Lutheran Church, Edwardsville.

Singing a festive anthem during the service will be the Metro-east Lutheran High School Choir, under the direction of Robert Dosien. Leading the congregation in worship will be the Rev. Samuel Boda, vacancy pastor at Concordia, and pastor at St. John Lutheran Church. He will be assisted by the Rev. David Fielding, pastor of Hope Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Alfred E. Johnson is the pastor of Bethel AME, and he invites the public to attend. City officials are also invited to be present and the Venice City Council has declared Sunday as Bethel AME Day.

Choir tonight at Gospel Mission

The choir of First Baptist Church of Glen Carbon will present musical selections, under the direction of Mrs. Susan Hopkins, at the 7 o'clock services tonight at the Gospel Mission, 2014 E. 26th St.

The public is being invited to attend tonight's program, which also will feature solo numbers by members of the choral group. Mrs. Bethel Davis, mission superintendent, advised.

At services at 7 p.m. Sunday, Dr. George Rosenthal of Belleville will deliver the message. Church school classes at all age levels start at 9 a.m. Sunday, Mrs. Davis said.

A large crowd of worshippers attended Easter sunrise services at the mission last weekend, she added.

DAIRY RECIPES

ARE PARTY FEATURES

Dairy products of all kinds are the targets for the 1983 Farm Bureau statewide dairy promotion slated for the month of April. The Madison County Farm Bureau Women's Committee is planning a "Dairy Daze—Taste It—You'll Like It" party as its promotional program. Mrs. Kay Losch, chairman, said.

The party will be at the Farm Bureau Auditorium, 900 Hillsboro Ave., Edwardsville, on Friday, April 15, beginning at 9:30 a.m. The public is being invited to attend the party, where many various dishes of food for viewing and tasting will be featured.

Mrs. Losch encourages all area women to attend. There will be recipes for all and prizes.

FIRST GRADE PRIZE WINNERS in the Granite City Park District's annual Easter egg hunt in the Ice Rink pavilion included, from the left, Jamie Hamilton, Stacy Milun, Bunny Nancy Nolan, Michael Lemp, Nathan Scarborough.

Zachary Huff and Christopher Schank, who also found the golden egg and a chocolate "bunny." There were about 2,500 brightly colored plastic eggs filled with jelly beans hidden for the youngsters to find at the weekend event.

Nuclear forum to begin

A talk by Marvin Kalkstein will launch a week-long campus forum on "The Nuclear Controversy" at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

He will speak at 8 p.m. Friday in the Lovejoy Library auditorium. A former weapons specialist for the Pentagon and retired professor of physics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Kalkstein will discuss "Beyond the Freeze and the Politics Behind It."

Carl Bender, professor of physics at Washington University, will give an introduction to the controversy in his remarks from 11 a.m. to 12 noon Monday, April 11, in the Illinois Room of the University Center.

Individuals from anti-nuclear organizations, the nuclear industry, the military, civil defense and the medical professions will take part in a panel discussion on nuclear arms and power at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the center's Goshen Lounge. Panel members will also conduct workshops from 1:30 until 4 p.m. Tuesday in the University Center.

A representative of Union Electric and Bryon Clemmons of the Coalition for the Environment will debate on nuclear industry from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 13, in Goshen Lounge.

Paul Walker, research director for Physicians for Social Responsibility and former director of the Union of Concerned Scientists, will speak on the threat of nuclear war and on national

Hotline for state income tax advice

The Illinois Department of Revenue will be open on Saturday and offer extended hours next week to assist tax-sensitive filers with their state income tax returns.

Toll-free telephone lines will be in operation from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday and from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Wednesday, April 13, through the deadline day, Friday, April 15.

The toll-free number is 1-800-252-6972.

Assistance also is available at Department of Revenue regional offices, including Fairview Heights. Last year, 4.7 million Illinois state income tax returns were filed, including nearly two million during the final week before the deadline.

SEEK ALTON MAN AFTER WOMAN HURT

After being involved in an argument with her husband in Charlie's Restaurant parking lot late last week, and Alton woman told police she then got into her auto and her husband began beating her head and body with his fists as he drove north on Nameoki Road. He let her out of the car on Route 203, she said.

Two Granite City residents, occupying a vehicle at the rear of the Alton couple's car, said they followed the car after seeing a woman's leg hanging out of the vehicle, which was traveling fast.

The vehicle then stopped in the traffic lane on Route 203 and it appeared the woman fell from the auto, which was driven away, they said.

The local residents picked up the woman and transported her to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she was treated for a finger fracture, cuts to her hip and numerous abrasions to her body, police said.

pressing their fears, thoughts and hopes about the future in an age of nuclear weapons. It will be shown at 2:30 and 7 p.m. Monday.

A film describing medical consequences of nuclear weapons and war will be shown at 3:30 and 7 p.m. Tuesday. "The Last Epidemic" lasts 35 minutes.

"Nuclear Countdown," a 29-minute film examining nuclear energy and weapons issues, will be shown at 2:30 and 7 p.m. Wednesday.

"Fable Safe," a nine-minute satire on the arms race, and "Who's in Charge Here?" — a 15-minute film dealing with U.S. military spending — will be shown at 7 p.m. Thursday, April 14, and 2:30 p.m. Friday, April 15.

All the films will be shown in the DeJa Vu Room in the basement of the University Center. All events, except Dr. Walker's seminar, are free and open to the public. It is $1 for students and $2 for others.

The forum is sponsored by the SIUE Student Program Board in cooperation with National Town Meeting. More information about the scheduled events is available from the SPIB at 692-2617 or NTM at 692-3382.

Workshops on safe riding of motorcycles are offered.

A free workshop for Illinois residents on "Motorcycle Riding Techniques" will be offered at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville during spring quarter. The class will focus on the basic knowledge and skills needed to ride a motorcycle safely.

Anyone 16 years or older who has a driver's license or learner's permit may enroll. Those under 18, however, must receive parental permission.

Motorcycles, helmets and insurance are provided for all participants. Six sections of the workshop are offered.

Course one will meet April 11 to 22, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from 5:30 to 9 p.m.

Course two will meet April 12 to 23, Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 5:30 to 9 p.m., and Saturdays, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Course three will meet April 25 to May 6, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from 5:30 to 9 p.m.

Course four will meet April 26 to May 7, Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 5:30 to 9 p.m., and Saturdays, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Course five, a weekend class, will meet May 13 to 15, Friday from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

NETWORK TO MEET

Wednesday, April 13, is the date of the next meeting of the Southern Illinois Network of Women at Routin's on Highway 157 in Collinsville. For more information on SIN or to make lunch reservations, interested women may contact Kathi Mathis at 1-656-0057; JoAnn Moore at 1-277-0560 or P. L. "Percy" Temple at 1-259-0059.

Park District announces Easter egg hunt winners

The annual Easter egg hunt, sponsored by the Granite City Park District, attracted a record number of children who arrived at the Ice Rink pavilion ready to search for as many of the 2,500 hidden eggs as possibly and to try to find the special "golden egg."

First graders participated in the event at 9 a.m. Kindergarten students at 9:45 a.m. and preschoolers at 10:30 a.m.

Winners in the first grade category was Christopher Schank, 3072 Dale Ave., who found the golden egg and received a chocolate bunny. Zachary Huff, 2436 Edison Ave., found 35 eggs the most for the boy division, and Nathan Scarborough, 2167 Cleveland Blvd., found 21 eggs.

Stacey Milun, 2321 Washington Ave., was winner of the most eggs for a girl contest, and Jamie Hamilton, 2945 Myrtle Ave., found 35 eggs the most for the girl division, and Nathan Scarborough, 2167 Cleveland Blvd., found 21 eggs.

In the kindergarten division, Ricky Roberts, 2120 Ohio Ave., found the golden egg for the top prize and David Shems, 2588 Spalding Ave., found 24 eggs each. Jason Hagopian, 2404 Edwards located 29 eggs to win first and second prize in the most eggs by boys category. Girls who found the most eggs were Barbara Simchek, 2839 Grand Ave., with 22 eggs, and Megan Alabough, 123 Wilson Park Lane with 16 eggs. Keith Simon, 1828 Spring Ave. found the largest number with a total of 25 eggs.

Charles Stepanick, 2520 Edwards St., was the recipient of the most eggs found with a total of 20, in the preschool division. Most eggs found by boys award by a girl division, and Tara Gustafson, 3115 Rodger Ave., captured second place.

Marshland trade-closer to reality

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

The proposal has been negotiated since 1979 to trade a 221-acre section of swampland owned by the Metro-East Sanitary District for land owned by the Illinois Department of Conservation, that would provide relief from drainage problems, may become a reality by summer.

The Department of Conservation is interested in the 221-acre site, part of the American Bottoms wetlands, because it is one of the last remaining wilderness areas in the state, MESD president Walter "Shang" Greathouse said Tuesday following a board of commissioners meeting.

Legal snags and red tape have kept the transfer from going through and Greathouse said that the proposal may have to be acted upon by the state legislature. He indicated that he is, however, confident that the transaction could occur soon.

Initially, the trade involved the 221 acres from the MESD and only 70 acres from the Department of Conservation. Three tracts of land now are under consideration in the trade from the Department of Conservation and the total acreage involved is nearly equal to the MESD's half of the transaction.

While the trade would provide the Department of Conservation with the wilderness area, for which Greathouse said MESD has no use, it would give the sanitary district an alternative to drainage problems, including a way to divert its excess surface waterflows into Horseshoe Lake. There have been problems with sediment and debris dumping in the state and it was reported in April of 1982 that the state claimed it cost $100,000 annually to contract the sediment buildup.

Two of the tracts the MESD hopes to obtain are in the Cahokia area and one is a holding pond near the Hartford Canal.

The Nature Conservancy, a not-for-profit organization, had an option on purchasing the marshland last spring, but did not buy the land. The MESD land is located off Interstate 55, east of Cahokia Mounds State Park. It resembles conditions found by settlers of the American Bottoms.

Consideration also was given Wednesday to drainage problems in the same vicinity, near Highway 15 at Pocket Road by the Cahokia Race Track. Water builds up in sections of land there and backs up into a lake at Frank Hotten State Park, a situation the Department of Conservation would like to remedy.

Greathouse said the department has advised that MESD construct a 900 to 1000-foot levee on the east bank of the area to control the backup of water.

Farmers in the area also contact MESD frequently about water in their fields, but the commissioners agreed that the top priority has to be subdivisions in the area.

"We have to put our priority on the people and anything that endangers the people. Then we can worry about the farmers' fields," said David Bergfeld, a MESD commissioner.

Greathouse was interrupted during a conversation after the meeting by a telephone call from the Department of Conservation and he said that the official told him the department might be able to help MESD with the drainage problems in that area.

Debris that blocked part of the waterway and forced backup problems in the area had been a constant threat until MESD cut out a section to enable the water to flow freely.

Another area where

MESD faces significant drainage problems involves the construction of Interstate 255. Greathouse said that drain off has occurred on land around I-255 construction. "Our levee was in good shape until they put the highway in," he said.

He maintains that the responsibility for controlling drainage problems in the area of I-255 belongs to the Illinois Department of Transportation. He said he has indicated to IDOT officials that "it's your responsibility. You better get money in your budgets so you can handle it."

Past problems with IDOT and the Army Corps of Engineers, have, Greathouse said, been solved. "It has gotten to the point where they respect us because we tell them the truth," he said. The relationship between MESD and the other agencies is "50 times better" than it was before, he maintains. "Up until the last couple of years, we had done their work for them," he said of drainage problems involving IDOT and the Army Corps of Engineers. Because of this, the agencies believed MESD would always take care of problems, even though the areas of land involved were not really of the sanitary district's concern in terms of maintenance and drainage.

In other matters, the commissioners commented on the payroll, which they have attempted to "cut down as much as we can," Greathouse said.

Temporary employees recently were hired to work for minimum wage and the commissioners considered hiring some of them to continue working.

The board also decided to recommend that building not take place at 1612 Wilson Ave. A permit request from John P. McCain was for a house and garage and the commissioners noted that the area fills with water every time it rains. If McCain decides to build, the commissioners said, he will be doing so at his own risk.

It was recommended that building be delayed until Nameoki Township finds a way to more effectively deal with drainage problems at that lot.

GC students do well in music event

REPORTS ASSAULT ATTEMPT IN LOT

A woman resident of the Kirkpatrick Homes reported last week that, while in a parking area at the Housing complex, she saw a man in the 3800 block alleyway striking clothesline poles with a metal pipe.

The man approached as she walked to her apartment and she told him to halt, she told police. Her dog was barking at the man, who began to swing the pipe in her direction from about six feet away, and he stated that if she didn't get out of the way he would hit her, she said.

The woman reported unchaining her dog and the man, who appeared to be under the influence of alcohol or drugs, then walked down the alley toward Nameoki Road.

He was described in his late teens, about 5 feet, 6 inches tall, thin, with dark wavy shoulder-length hair. He was wearing dark clothing, she said. Police searched the area, but were unable to find the man.

Man robs woman at gunpoint

Madison police are looking for a man who took a purse from a woman at gunpoint last week.

Lois Miller of Madison walked from her home to the home of Connie Almos in the 1600 block of Second Street, where she was supposed to babysit. After knocking at the front door and not receiving an answer, the victim went to a side door and knocked.

She told police that a black male stuck his head out from the side of the building and then jerked his head back. He looked around again, she said, and then walked up to her and stuck the barrel of a revolver to her temple.

He threatened to shoot her if she did not give him her purse. She complied and the assailant fled south through the yard, jumped a fence and ran south through the alley.

The assailant was described as being 19 to 20 years old, 5 feet, 8-inches tall, with a dark complexion and thin build. He was wearing a black ski mask, a green jacket, a yellow T-shirt or sweat shirt, blue jeans and tennis shoes.
